

DENTAL CLINIC FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

School Committee May Employ a Dentist for the Forenoons of the School Year

Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of public schools, allows that the dental clinic for school children has filled a long felt want and that the school department is greatly indebted to the dentists who volunteered their services. Speaking with the city hall reporter for The Sun, this forenoon, Mr. Molloy said:

"The dental clinic which has been provided for the children of all the schools of the city was opened on May 1, 1913, at the Worthen street school; that it has filled a long felt need has been shown in the two months during which it has been in operation."

"Not only has much suffering been relieved but a very decided beginning has been made in drawing the attention of children to the importance of caring for their teeth."

"The clinic was open three mornings a week, for seven weeks, and enough was accomplished to convince even the ordinary observer that there is a real need for it and that it is by no means a 'fad' in the school world."

"During these weeks work of the most pressing character only has been done and some children whose needs were not met were sent away with the understanding that they might come later in the year; other children who did not understand that the clinic is for those who cannot afford to pay full fees to a dentist were recommended to their family dentist."

"Although the time was very brief, 238 children were examined, 35 teeth were treated, 59 teeth were filled, 205 teeth were extracted, and 31 children had their teeth cleaned."

"Children came from all the schools, private as well as public; there were children from 31 public schools and from five private schools. The arrangements with the children were made by Miss French, the school visitor, who also attended the clinic and assisted in caring for the children."

"The school department is greatly indebted to the dentists who volunteered their services in order to get the clinic underway. The names of the dentists and the dates on which they served, follow:

Dr. A. S. Macleod, on May 1; Dr. C. F. Francis, on May 2; Dr. G. L. Darling, on May 6, June 20; Dr. H. E. Davis, on May 6 and June 6, June 20; Dr. W. H. Peplin, May 9; Dr. V. E. Darling, May 15 and June 24; Dr. N. O. Provencher, on May 16 and June 10; Dr. G. W. Benneville, on May 20 and June 17; Dr. S. R. Walker, on May 22 and June 12; Dr. Hugh Walker, on May 23 and June 12; Dr. J. V. Peplin, on May 27 and June 13; Dr. N. S. Phillips, on June 3. It has been found advisable elsewhere, on account of the amount of work to be done and in order to place the undertaking on as permanent a footing as any other activity of the school department, to employ a dentist for all the forenoons of the school year. It has been found, also, to be well to charge nominal fees in all cases where children are able to pay them."

"What the school committee will do with respect to these two considerations is as yet uncertain; but an excellent beginning has been made in a very important line of service and the awakening of a proper interest on the part of teachers, children, and the public generally will be sure to bring about results far in excess of the most sanguine expectations of those who established the work."

BOY WAS BLOWN TO PIECES BY DYNAMITE

Had Stick of Explosive in Pocket Which Went Off During Wrestling Bout With His Brother

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 22.—"Take that dynamite out of your hip pocket before we do any more wrestling, Marty," said Roland Funk to his brother while the young men were having a wrestling bout today. Martin did not bother to remove the explosive from his person so when he was thrown on his back by a quick shift of his brother the dynamite exploded and he was blown to pieces. Roland's left arm was blown from his body. The boys, who had not yet reached their majority and whose home was in Hudson, had been camping in a tent near Germantown.

MAYOR O'DONNELL AND OTHER OFFICIALS

Appeared Before the Legislative Committee Today Relative to an Isolation Hospital

Mayor O'Donnell, Commissioner Cummings, Dr. Brunelle, chairman of the board of health, and Agent Bates of the board of health, went to Boston today to appear before the special legislative committee on tuberculosis. This committee is investigating the tuberculosis situation in Massachusetts and the committee has the power to summon any and all witnesses. The Lowell men were not summoned. Mayor O'Donnell received a letter from the committee requesting his attendance at the hearing and His Honor was directed to take along other witnesses if he so desired.

The hearing was begun shortly after two o'clock and the committee's most important question had to do with the erection and maintenance of an isolation hospital in this city. Why has the city of Lowell neglected to build an isolation hospital as provided by law and as required by the state board of health?

That was the substance of the question and Mayor O'Donnell answered in some considerable detail. He went over the whole history of the contagious hospital commission from its inception to the time when a majority of its members resigned. He referred to a letter which he addressed to the state board of health in January, 1912, in which he gave as his reason for Lowell's failure to erect a contagious disease hospital that there were acts pending before the legislature which if passed and made operative would relieve cities and towns of the responsibility of isolation hospitals. One act provided for state and county care,

NEW HOSPITAL SITE IS OFFERED

Dr. Pillsbury Estate on Rivercliffe Proposed—Messrs. O'Hearn and Reilly Accept Office as Appraisers

The meeting of the municipal council scheduled for this forenoon proved a very brief affair and despite the fact that the council was in session for less than 30 minutes, quite a raft of business was transacted. A big list of routine matters went over to this evening at 7.50 when the council will hold another meeting. At the meeting this evening the municipal council will give the Trades and Labor council a hearing on the public bath question, the Trades and Labor council having asked for a hearing in the matter, as in favor of baths. The meeting was cut in two this forenoon because Mayor O'Donnell and Commissioner Cummings wanted to get the 12.12 train for Boston to attend the hearing before the special committee of the legislature appointed to investigate the tuberculosis situation in Massachusetts. Alderman Barrett was not at the meeting this forenoon, but it was stated that he would attend the hearing in Boston. Aldermen Brown and Donnelly will not attend. Mayor O'Donnell received a communication from the committee a few days and another act for co-operative care between cities or cities and towns.

Mayor O'Donnell did not offer any excuse for Lowell's failure to erect a contagious disease hospital and he explained present conditions very thoroughly. He told of the appointment by the city council of appraisers on a hospital site and he allowed that something would be done in this city in the very near future.

SUICIDE OF MISS BEEBE

Despondency Due to Nervousness the Cause

BOSTON, July 22.—Despondency due to a nervous trouble from which she had suffered for some time is generally accepted as the explanation of the suicide of Miss Emily Esther Beebe.

the daughter of wealthy parents at the hotel Touraine yesterday.

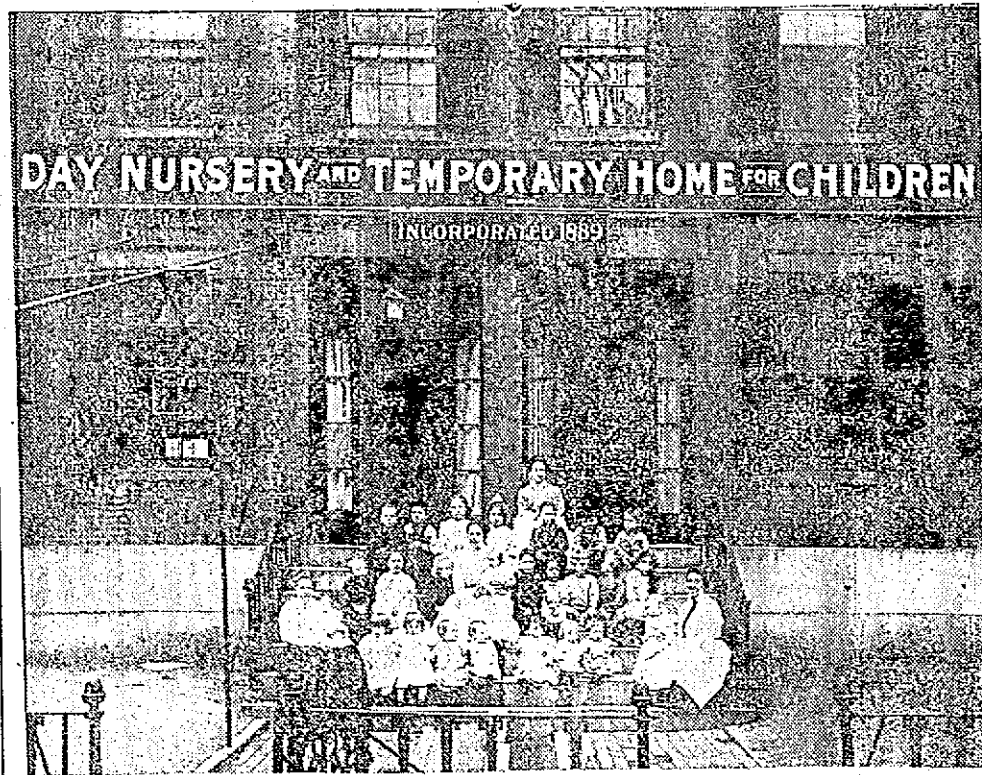

It was first announced that death was from poisoning but a further examination of the body revealed a bullet wound. That a love affair figured in the tragedy was denied by friends of the young woman today.

Miss Beebe was 31 years old and the daughter of J. Arthur Beebe of Commonwealth avenue. She had appeared despondent for several days. She went to Mrs. Gordon Prince's summer home at West Manchester, which the Beebes are occupying this summer. Usually they go to their own summer estate at Falmouth but a change was made this season in the hope that if the daughter was taken away from her customary surroundings her health might be benefited.

During luncheon Miss Beebe was taken ill and asked that her family physician, Dr. C. T. Putnam, be called. She then went to her rooms. When the physician arrived he found the door locked and heard groans. The door was broken open and the young woman was found lying on the bed fully dressed.

One of Miss Beebe's brothers, Dr. Arthur Beebe, committed suicide by shooting in 1898.

DAY NURSERY IS KEPT VERY BUSY

Attendance Now Greater Than Ever—Resources of Institution Not Quite Up to Its Needs

A striking example of the valuable assistance which is being rendered parents and their children in Lowell by the charitable and benevolent association of citizens is found in the Day Nursery in Kirk street, a flourishing institution which is accomplishing no small amount of good. Much has been written and said about this nursery but new information concerning such an institution is always worthy of publication and never fails to attract the attention of people who have any interest in the work. This morning a representative of The Sun was granted an interview by the matron, Mrs. Nelson, who has been in charge of the Day Nursery for the past four years. In general, she said the affairs of the place are running smoothly, though in such work the setbacks are numerous. Today there were 46 children at the institution. The greater number of these are brought there in the morning by the working father or mother or other relative and called for at night when the parent is returning from work. There are several children of the ages

STATE PAID $4000 TO LOWELL VETS

Payments Were Made Under Provisions of So-Called Schofield Gratuities Bill

The sum of about $4000 has been paid out by the state of Massachusetts to veterans of the Civil war in Lowell and vicinity so far this year. This is according to the record at the office of the state aid at city hall and Capt. Worthen, superintendent of state aid, says that other veterans may have obtained money through other channels than his office.

These payments have been made under the provisions of the so-called Schofield gratuity bill, by which every veteran who never received a bounty at the time of his service is entitled to a gratuity of $125 from the commonwealth.

Some veterans who made application will not receive the gratuity because of the fact that they had already received a bounty, and in justice to the veterans who made these applications it is stated that in a majority of cases, they did not know that they or their families had received any bounty. In one instance a Lowell man was deprived of the gratuity because his mother had received, on his account, a bonus of $32.

The expectation was, when this act was passed, that the payments would reach something over $200,000, as reports had been received at that time from veterans sufficient to bring it up to this amount. Since then, however, it has developed that there were many men who either enlisted in the regular army or who entered the navy from different points away from home, but who served to the credit of Massachusetts and it is the application of these veterans that have swelled the figures.

Last year, practically $215,000 was paid out on this account and further payments were deferred as all the money had been exhausted. This year's legislature, however, authorized the issuing of bonds to any amount sufficient to cover this expenditure, and already $550,000 of bonds have been issued this year, and this, with the previous payments, makes a total appropriation of $763,947.09. The payments to date, however, have reached $224,250, so that there is quite a sum available for applications in the future.

The number of these applications have rapidly dropped, however. Early in the year at each weekly meeting of the government's council some 100 cases were put through while at a recent meeting of the council the number had dwindled to eight. It is expected that pretty nearly every veteran entitled to this gratuity has received his money by this time; that is with the exception of some 500 or 1000 cases that are still pending before the board that passes upon them. In each of these cases there is some defect in the data required; that is the applicant is not able to prove that he served to the credit of Massachusetts, that he did not receive a bounty or something of that nature. This board is not holding fast to a rule requiring written proof of such facts, but is asking sworn statements of comrades who served with the men, or citizens who know these facts to be true, so that quite a number of these cases will undoubtedly be favorably passed upon later although some of them will not be able to satisfy the board.

The payments made to veterans in Lowell, through the office of Capt. Worthen at city hall, are as follows: Charles R. Hadley, Matthew Smith, George H. Bass, Archibald Higgins, Richard Monahan, Philip Mooney, Thomas Burns, John L. Chambers, Eugene Turner, Knoch Webster, Thomas Tully, Michael F. Powers, John Mally, Everett E. Wheeler, John A. Rogers, John Hallisey, William H. H. Sanford, Charles I. Taylor, Robert Johnson, Patrick, Rordan (deceased), money paid his widow; Henry Sullivan, Caleb Philbrick, Samuel Peckham, John J. A. Ferguson, Anthony Rivers, Patrick Donahoe, Alexander Marshall, William Corcoran, Louis S. Smith, Albert Chase and Michael Rodgers.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE CHILDREN

Sergt. Daley Runs Cycle
Into Curb to Avert
Collision

Responding to Call—
Hurled Against Tree
and is Dying

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—Desk Sergeant Daley of the Lackawanna police force is dying today from injuries received when he swerved his motorcycle into a curve to avoid hitting several little girls.

In the absence of a reserve policeman last night Daley responded to an alarm of fire. He was traveling at a fast clip when the girls darted into the street directly in his path. Daley swung his machine into the curb. It struck the stump of a tree and Daley was hurled against a tree 20 feet away. His skull was fractured and his lungs were punctured by broken ribs. The fire loss was $5.

Daley, a year ago was given a medal for saving three children from drowning.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Almeida

"The skin will soon regain its youthful freshness and beauty if powder be discarded for a plain lotion made by dissolving an original package of mayalene in a half-pint of witch hazel. After cleansing the face, neck and arms each morning apply some of the lotion and massage in well. This gives to the skin a satiny smoothness and delightful tone and it is especially fine for hot weather use, because one application will last an entire day. The mayalene lotion is very satisfactory for tan, freckles and sunburn and overcomes the spotted, streaked effect caused from perspiration when powder is employed. Its regular use corrects many complexion upsets and lends an added touch of refinement to the faintest skin."

"Fuzzy growths appear more prominent in warm weather and are the source of considerable annoyance. A reliable and certain hair remover is made by mixing enough powdered salicylic acid to form a thick paste. Spread this on the objectionable hairs and after two minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. This simple treatment is inexpensive, harmless and leaves the skin without spot or blemish of any kind."

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

MEAT PACKING INDUSTRY DOESN'T WANT THE JOB

Dr. A. D. Melvin to Make
Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry was designated today by Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture to undertake a three months' investigation of the meat packing industry in Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay and Paraguay. Some time ago Secretary Houston announced his intention of sending representatives of his department to inquire into the meat industry of the southern republics and the detaching of the chief of the animal industry bureau for the work is accepted as evidence that the secretary anticipates heavy imports as soon as the new tariff bill passes with meat on the free list and that a thorough knowledge of packing conditions in the countries to the south is necessary to insure intelligent inspection.

Dr. Melvin will sail from New York Saturday. Other experts of his bureau later, it is said, will be sent to Australia and to various European countries on similar missions.

R. F. Marden Not Candidate for County Com.

Robert F. Marden is not a candidate for county commissioner. He took office on May 17 last, having been selected to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death of Charles H. Richardson of this city. Mr. Marden's election at that time came as a surprise to him and he has decided not to be a candidate at the coming election. Mr. Marden has not the time to give to the office and he doesn't want to assume any responsibility without giving it his full and entire attention.

"The brief experience I have had as county commissioner," said Mr. Marden, "convince me that the duties of the office require more time and attention than I can give to them, although my natural inclination would be to serve the county willingly. The county work is exceedingly attractive and pleasant and it is a distinct pleasure to work with my two associates on the board. For this reason I have naturally sought to convince myself that I should be a candidate, but without success."

ILLEGAL VOTING IN CHICAGO

Today

Barrel of Money Distributed In Lodging
House District

CHICAGO, July 22.—A barrel full of half dollars which helped to enliven life for the derelicts who occupied cheap lodging houses in the first ward on the night of the last election is to be the subject of today's investigation by the special grand jury investigating the November election frauds. More than 200 dentizens of the "tops" have been subpoenaed to give their version of the distribution of the money.

Special State's Attorney Northrup will endeavor to learn from what bank the large amount of silver money was obtained. Evidence is said to have been unearthed that illegal voting was prevalent in First, Eighteenth and River wards and that the new voting machines played an important part in a well laid plan. Hundreds of illegal votes are alleged to have been registered by election judges who entered the booths with voters ostensibly to show them how to operate the devices.

Legislative inquiry into the purchase of $1,000,000 worth of voting machines by the county was begun today when the Rutts committee held its first session.

ATLANTIC DEEPER WATERWAYS
Latest Bulletin of Association Shows
Progress of Development During the Past Year

The latest bulletin of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association comments on the progress of waterway development in Massachusetts as follows:

"The month's record of progress in Massachusetts is disappointing. An important measure for harbor improvements was defeated in the state senate, after passing the house by a large majority; was defeated, too, by votes from the very cities most interested. It is a striking example of popular misrepresentation, for commercial interests were unanimously for the bill."

"The plan was to vote $5,000,000 for improvement of harbors outside of Boston, to be raised by popular loan at the rate of $1,000,000 per year, and to be expended by the harbor and land commission."

"There were public hearings on the bill and great interest was shown. No adverse criticism was observed. But under the surface things were going on, for on the final vote the bill was beaten, and largely by votes that had been regarded as absolutely sure to be in its favor."

"Whether the commissioners of the port of Boston objected to the creation of another large harbor board in the state, or whether there was jealousy of the proposed improvement of other harbors, or whether railroad influence got in its deadly work, are questions related to local politics that we do not feel called upon to determine. Senator McLean, of Fall River, who voted against the interests of his own city, is quoted as opposing the bill because it gave discretion to the commissioners and did not specify the amounts to be spent in each place."

"The senate committee turned the bill down on the ground that taxes would be increased by interest on the bonds. Perhaps the real cause has not been disclosed."

"We believe that the defeat of this bill will echo in the state elections next fall, and that the next legislature, which meets in 1914, will receive a more determined call for favorable action on waterway improvements. Springfield and Holyoke, Fall River and New Bedford, Plymouth, Lynn, Salem and Gloucester, Haverhill and Lawrence, are all concerned. The Connecticut, Taunton and Merrimack rivers all call for improvement in the utilization of their commercial advantages; all these projects are connected with that of the intracoastal waterway, and Massachusetts cannot afford to sit still while other states are going ahead."

"More enthusiasm and determination to the friends of waterways in New England, and better luck next year!"

SCOUTS HELD GALA DAY GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY TO STOP FIRE LOSSES

Had Enjoyable Outing at
No. Chelmsford

The third annual gala day held under the auspices of the North Chelmsford Boy Scouts was a great success, hundreds of young and old people turning out. The event was held on the large lawn adjacent to Mr. Mark Ingham's residence and a vote of thanks was extended to him for his kindness in placing the grounds at the boys' disposal during the afternoon and evening.

During the afternoon the Middlesex County Training school band gave several selections and a fine program of sports was carried out. The sporting events were very interesting and useful prizes were given the winners of the different numbers. At 6 o'clock refreshments were served and these were followed by an open-air minstrel show by the Y. M. C. A. boys who are camping at Nahant. The minstrel entertainment was one of the features of the day, the musical numbers being very well rendered and the jokes of the end men brought long applause from the audience. The crowd dispersed shortly after 10 o'clock, all congratulating the boys for the fine entertainment afforded during the afternoon and evening.

ROCKEFELLER HOUSE FIRED

Flames Discovered Under Stairway in Cottage on Estate at Tarrytown, New York

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 22.—Flames were discovered under the main stairway in a cottage on the Rockefeller estate at Pocantico hills, yesterday, the third fire on the property within 22 days. Mr. Rockefeller experienced much trouble with foreign laborers during a strike on his estate last fall and it is suspected that some of the disgruntled employees, scores of whom have been discharged, have sought revenge by committing arson. Several weeks ago a stable burned with a loss of $150,000.

Red Letter Day Votes
Help Teams

"It is really surprising how the total vote of any team can be boosted on a red letter day," said a woman yesterday. "Why, last Wednesday, I made several purchases of things that I actually needed in the stores giving the votes and when I returned home, I was astonished at the number of votes I had. Mind you, to get the votes I did not spend one cent over the amount that the purchases, all of which it was necessary for me to make, called for."

More and more supporters of the various teams in the great library contest are beginning to see the advantage of trading at the stores giving votes on Wednesday which will be Red Letter day during the remainder of the contest. On that day, where they would any other day receive but one vote for each ten cent purchase, they will get 10 votes. And how that ten votes and all other extra votes will be needed on the last leg of the contest time alone will tell.

Everywhere the contest has been run there are always a few teams that will show more interest and activity in the early stages of the contest than others, and how evident that is in this city. Just scan the list of teams and see whether this is true or not. Some teams probably think that the time to work the hardest is when the contest is nearing its close. This is probably a good way to sway a political battle but in the contest for books, if we may be privileged to use a little of the present day parlance "it's poor dope."

As the boatman that goes out and returns with the tide, expends the least energy and can rest on his oars while the fellow boatman is hustling to keep his craft from drifting out to open water, so with the teams that are working hard now. The time of rest is coming. Don't forget to take advantage of the Red Letter Day opportunities.

Chamber of Commerce

BOSTON, July 22.—The recent fires in Dorchester and Roxbury resulted in a special meeting of the chamber of commerce committee on fire prevention yesterday. The committee will arrange for a conference with Mayor Fitzgerald and the city council.

The Chamber of Commerce News yesterday said: "At a meeting last week the committee on fire prevention expressed unanimous opinion that it should reiterate the recommendations contained in its report on the prevention of fires in Boston, namely, to secure the adoption of legislation to extend the fire limits to include the entire city; to prohibit any but fireproof construction within the congested business district; to require second class buildings in the congested district to be equipped with automatic sprinklers."

Insurance agents and brokers will assist the chamber of commerce committee in co-operating with Mayor Fitzgerald to improve the existing conditions.

Parents, Read This Letter!

I have a letter from a prominent Maine clergyman in regard to a sickness of one of his children from which I quote as follows:

"Our two-year-old baby was very sick at two different times and we came near losing her. We had the best doctors, but they did not know what the trouble was. In the first sickness she had high fever for several days, and the doctors said it acted like scarlet fever, but as there were no other cases he did not think it could be. Afterwards she broke out in a rash all over her body. The last sickness was similar and the doctor was puzzled. She was very nervous and we feared we would lose her. Your Dr. True's Elixir was recommended, and after two days' use she passed several worms from two to three inches in length, and is now well and strong and sleeps at nights without fretting, tossing and starting in a fright as she did formerly."

I will be glad to furnish this clergyman's name and address to anyone who cares to write to me.

N.B.—True's Elixir is the best known remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles. Purely vegetable, pleasant to take and entirely harmless. Expels stomach worms and pinworms. All dealers, 35c; 50c; $1.00. Yours for better health.

RAILROADS TO READJUST TARIFFS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The inter-state commerce commission held today that the all rail freight rate on wheat from Minneapolis to New York city via Chicago and Lockport, N. Y., was unreasonable to the extent that it exceeded the rate contemporaneously in effect on flour—25 cents a hundred pounds. The railroads will be required by Oct. 1 so to readjust their tariffs as to make the commission's conclusions effective.

EXCUSE ME

FIRE AT POWER HOUSE

Big Dynamo Damaged to Extent of $6000

CAR SERVICE BUT SLIGHTLY INTERRUPTED

Fire in Bradley Building Kept Within the Store in Which it Started—A Busy Day for Firemen

Several alarms kept the members of the local fire department quite busy last night and the most difficult blaze with which they had to contend was that which was discovered shortly after 7 o'clock at the power house of the Bay State Street Railway Company and which, before extinguished, damaged one of the big generators to the extent of $6000.

The cause of the blaze was the short circuiting of engine 4 and the railway company's fire emergency apparatus was at once brought into play while at the same time an alarm was sounded from box 271. But a moment after the fire was discovered, the power was shifted over to an auxiliary dynamo provided for that purpose and the car service was held up for but a few minutes only.

Due to the prompt response and efficient work of the fire fighters, the damage to the building was slight. The combustible portions of the apparatus were destroyed, however, and the big generator was also injured by the water. A representative of the company stated the loss at approximately $6000. No change will be necessary in the car service while the apparatus is being rebuilt.

False Alarm in Restaurant
Someone who saw smoke issuing from the kitchen of the Waldorf hotel in Merrimack street summoned the fire department and a number of fire fighters rushed into the restaurant only to find that the alarm had been a false one.

Alarm from Box 7

Shortly after 5 o'clock an alarm was rung in from box 7 at the corner of Market and Dutton streets and the firemen found a small blaze in a tenement house at 350 Market street. Signs behind a store in the kitchen caught fire and a woman who attempted to extinguish the blaze with her hands was severely burned. Damage was slight.

Bradley Block Fire

A fire in the basement of the New Idea millinery store in the Bradley block was discovered by a passerby about 9:30 last night. An alarm from box 112 was sounded. Large volumes of smoke were issuing from the windows of the basement. The firemen succeeded in subduing the flames and putting out the fire before it had spread from the place of origin. The cause of the fire is unknown, although a gas furnace is suspected. The New Idea store is the property of Max L. Gray. The others damaged by the smoke and water are Wilfred Kershaw and J. E. Lyle.

LIMIT ON FINAL PAPERS

New Ruling Affects All Foreigners

BOSTON, July 22.—James Farrel, chief of the local bureau of naturalization, has just issued a notice to all aliens who have made declarations of their intention to become citizens of the United States, to apply for their final papers before Sept. 27.

Beginning on that date all declarations, commonly known as first papers, that were made on Sept. 27, 1906, or later, will expire as soon as they become seven years old, unless application for final papers has previously been made.

Any alien who declared his intention to become a citizen after Sept. 27, 1906, and who has not asked for his final papers, will forfeit his first papers as soon as they are seven years old. Since 1906 there have been 3518 declarations filed, a considerable number of which have never been used to secure final papers.

Owing to the threatened lapse of several thousand first papers there will be a rush just before election, as 1506 applicants for citizenship have already applied for their final papers. The last opportunity these applicants will have will be Sept. 25.

WILL FIX TRACKS

Thomas Lees of Bay State Street Railway Promises to Do Things in Haverhill

General Manager Thomas Lees of the Bay State Street Railway company came here from Lowell Saturday, says the Haverhill Gazette, for a conference with Mayor Moulton, the latter having written the street railway official asking him to call on him.

As a result of the conference the street railway people will repair Main street from Summer street to Arlington street, as the macadam roadway 13 inches outside the tracks which the railroad rebuilt last year has crumbled away and left the street in dangerous shape.

This was not the only promise which the mayor exacted, however, for he called attention to several things. Supt. Lees promised to repair the track the length of River street, which is in a wretched condition at the present time and do what he could to make Essex street less like a storm at sea for the patrons of the Hillside avenue line until such time as the city can dig up money enough to make permanent improvements in the street.

FARMERS SUFFER

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Where bad roads prevail farmers are forced to move their crops not when the market price is favorable, but when the roads are favorable, and frequently at heavy pecuniary loss as a result, according to the office of the public roads department of agriculture.

Excessive fluctuations in market prices are seldom due to over-production, a statement issued today asserts. "They frequently take place in regions where the local production does not equal the consumption. There are counties rich in agricultural possibilities, burdened with bad roads, where the annual incoming shipments of food exceed the outgoing shipments in the ratio of four to one. Many of such counties with improved roads would not only become self supporting but would ship products to other markets."

BUYING THE LAND OF IRELAND

Secy. Birrell Offers Measure to Complete Transfer From Landlords to People

LONDON, July 21.—Three hundred million dollars in addition to the $25,000,000 already expended was the estimate given today by Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, of the sum necessary to complete the operation of land purchase in Ireland, in accordance with the provisions of the land purchase acts of 1903 and 1909, which make it compulsory for a landlord to permit his tenant to purchase the land he cultivates. The chief secretary made this statement in introducing in the house of commons proposals of the government for the removal of the present block in the transfer of land to the peasantry.

DRUGGISTS OUTING

Will Be Held at Bass Point Tomorrow, Leaving Merrimack Square at 11:45 A. M.

The annual outing of the Druggists' association of this city will be held at Bass Point tomorrow. Two special cars will leave Merrimack square at 11:45 o'clock and will reach Bass Point shortly after 1 p. m. Immediately upon their arrival they will partake of a shore dinner at the Belay house after which a long list of sports will be carried out and a ball game will be played. Some valuable prizes have been donated for the winners of the different events and it is expected that some very close races will be held, as the athletic ability of the druggists has been shown in previous outings of this kind. The committee in charge has worked hard to make this affair one of the best ever held and it is expected that a large number will be on hand tomorrow. The druggists have such long hours that the general public will certainly not grudge them the day's outing.

6 BUILDINGS WRECKED BY FIRE

Destructive Blaze Broke Out at West Acton — Help From Other Towns

ACTON, July 22.—Six buildings were destroyed and eight others damaged in the village of West Acton today by a fire that is believed to have been started by a spark falling from a locomotive. The loss is placed at $40,000. The blaze originated in a barn owned by Luke Blanchard and driven by a high westerly wind the flames swept eastward, destroying two freight sheds owned by the Boston & Maine road, the house and barn of Mrs. Hutchins and the store house of George H. Reed. Help was summoned from surrounding towns and the fire was checked just as it was attacking the new Roman Catholic church and the Boston & Maine passenger station.

BOARDING HOUSE AFFAIR AIRED

Patrick Meade Got 3 Months for Assault — Frank Moore Held for Larceny of Grain

Patrick Meade had a very severe sentence passed on him this morning by Judge Pickman in police court when the nature of the evidence is taken into consideration. Meade was charged with assault and battery upon Charles Johnson.

The complainant and a man named Jerry White, who is also known by the name of Jerry White, swore that the defendant had assaulted Johnson with a club. To be sure Johnson had his head done up in plaster but for that matter the defendant's cranium was in a worse plight. In fact one not familiar with the case might very readily have supposed that the complainant and defendant were in exactly the opposite roles.

The two witnesses for the prosecution alleged that Meade had hired a night's lodging in the house of the complainant. Then the trouble began. The transient lodger was boisterous, testified both men. Up to this point the stories of both interested parties agreed but beyond this no similarity existed between the different sides of the case.

Both Johnson and his "star boarder," White or White, accused Meade of striking Johnson first. When asked how the defendant received the cut on his head they said that he fell down stairs. A woman, who was also called by the government, testified to being on the scene at the time of the trouble and she could not definitely say which one struck the first blow. One thing she was certain of, however, she was positive that Meade did not fall down the stairs.

The defendant told a straightforward story when he took the witness stand. He informed the court without quibbling over it that he had been arrested some years ago for drunkenness but that he had not been in since that time. "Your honor," said Meade, "I only hit that man when he attacked me." "Did you hit him in the head with that stick?" asked the judge, and Meade readily admitted that he remembered hitting the complainant once and was not sure whether he had struck him more than that or not. He hit his opponent's club. Johnson struck him first and made all the overtures for the fight according to his story. His story had every aspect of truth in the telling. He was ordered to be committed to jail for three months.

For Larceny of Grain

Frank Moore proved the truth of the old adage that "the way of the transgressor is hard" when he faced Judge Pickman in police court this morning on the charge of larceny. He pleaded guilty to the complaint but his case was held over until tomorrow at the request of Superintendent Welsh in order to give the police an opportunity to learn more about the man and his recent activities.

The defendant has worked for Joseph Mullin, the Gorham street grain dealer, for some time and until lately has given the greatest satisfaction. Recently, however, the supply of grain has been decreasing very rapidly and finally it dawned upon the management that someone was robbing the concern of many bushels of grain, the greatest discrepancy being in the oats department.

The police were secretly called in upon the case by Mr. Mullin and finally landed the necessary proof against Moore to warrant his arrest. Moore broke down when confronted by undeniable evidence of his guilt and confessed to selling the grain.

Moore used a very clever system getting rid of his stolen oats and managed to avoid all suspicion for some time. He was trusted with the duty of opening up Mr. Mullin's place of business in the morning and long before any other employees arrived on the scene Moore hurriedly take out as many bushels of the oats as possible. The complaint upon which he was arrested specified eighteen bushels of oats as the amount stolen.

Had a Good Time Out

John Hennessey went out on a little time of his own for the most fun and frolic he could derive individually out of the same. According to his rather perverted opinion of what a good racket meant he was obliged to do something which was forbidden by law.

Martin Conway, the Billerica, chief of the police department had young Hennessey in court this morning in answer to the charge of maliciously destroying or rather defacing the office of the North Billerica society. He pleaded guilty, through his attorney, James Stuart Murphy, Esq., and was placed in care of the probation officer for the ensuing six months.

Former Pleading Guilty

Daniel Cuddy, also called Daniel Cuddahy, pleaded guilty to forging a check for five dollars. He was evidently a very penitent man this morning. His case will come up tomorrow if it is not finished outside of police court.

Anti-Water Brigade

Michael Kehoe was sent to jail for a term of thirty days. Michael was over-drinking frequently and as there did not seem any prudent way of making the defendant stop the use of intoxicants, he was sent up to Thorndike street. Margaret M. Kelley was given a probationary sentence. Six months will be her time of walking the straight and narrow path under penalty of the law. Samuel Martel was also sent up to Sheriff Eveleville's residence in order to get some of the alcohol which he has been absorbing lately out of his system. James A. Cummings was fined $5 for his second appearance for drunkenness.

TROUBLE AT FOSS PLANT

Moulders are Exported to Strike

BOSTON, July 22.—As a result of the efforts made yesterday by union leaders in Hyde park, it is expected that the moulders, who have remained at work at the Sturtevant Blower Co. and the Becker Milling Machine Co. plants since the strike of the other employees began, May 31, will go out in sympathy.

"We have every reason to believe that the union moulders will respond to the strike call," said O. L. Preble, international vice president of the Patternmakers' association, one of those directing the strike, on his return from Hyde Park last night.

When the 150 moulders working at the Sturtevant factory came from the shops for the noon hour yesterday they were exhorted to strike by O. L. Preble, George Leary, international officer of the machinists, Francis Gallagher, an officer of the Carpenters' union, and Roscoe L. Hall, state president of the machinists' union. The mass meeting was held directly in front of the office of the plant, and between 2000 and 3000 people, including hundreds of strikers, were attracted to the scene. The whole street was filled for quite a distance, and there was a lot of cheering and other manifestations of enthusiasm.

The moulders were reminded by the various speakers that the strike had been going on for eight weeks, and they had not before been asked to come out on strike, but they were now asked to do so so that the strikers could close the plant entirely.

Every one of the speakers was listened to intently by the moulders, and many of them seemed in favor of striking, although they did not do so yesterday. They are expecting to receive sanction from their international officers.

FAST TENNIS PLAYING

Seen on Championship Court This Afternoon

BOSTON, July 22.—A crowd of several hundred close followers of tennis were banded against the championship court when the Niles-Dabney and Clothier-Gardner match began in the Longwood Tennis club's all-comers tournament this afternoon.

For two hours there was tennis of a high order. Clothier and Gardner aimed their attack at Dabney, in the belief that the diminutive Bostonian would weaken before a fusillade of shots. But Dabney not only developed a stone wall defense but with Niles drove the inter-city pair back to their baseline, scoring point after point by dazzling placement shots.

The Boston pair weakened slightly in the third set but soon rallied and resumed their fast net game captured the fourth set and the match.

Two New York pairs, G. F. Touchard and W. M. Washburn and G. M. Chubb and Dean Mathey won their matches in the first round, the former pair easily while the latter had considerable difficulty in putting R. H. Currier and W. W. Gallagher, both of Boston. The drawing brings the winners together in the second round.

Four matches in singles were run off during the forenoon, three of them in the third round in which the best three out of five matches are required.

PRESIDENT SULLIVAN OF BAY STATE

P. F. SULLIVAN,
President Bay State Street Railway.

Lectured to the Men of the Local Union — Supt. Irwin Gave an Illustrated Lecture

President P. F. Sullivan of the Bay State street railway delivered a very instructive address before the members of the local union at Hamilton hall on Middlesex street, last evening. President Sullivan came here on the invitation of the members, who voted at their last meeting to ask the popular official to attend the meeting.

Upon receiving the invitation to address the members of the union, President Sullivan immediately accepted, and announced that he would arrange to have Mr. Irwin, superintendent of the mechanical department, accompany him and give an illustrated talk on the progress of railways throughout the country. Both arrived here on schedule time and were met by a committee of the employees and escorted to the hall, where there was a large attendance on hand to greet the guests. Fred Crowley, president of the local union, presided, and after thanking President Sullivan and Supt. Irwin for accepting the invitation to come here, he introduced President Sullivan, who was enthusiastically applauded. After thanking the men for their cordial reception, he gave a very instructive address on the development of the railway system. He told of the early days of railroads in this and other cities, and of the remarkable progress made during the last few years. He complimented the men for the manner in which they have transacted all their business, and said that he was well pleased to state that the local branch of the Bay State was one of the most orderly and gave the officials the least trouble of any on the entire system.

President Sullivan also spoke of the importance of extending all possible courtesy to the passengers, saying that a satisfied passenger will return, while a dissatisfied one will not only keep away from the cars, but will do considerable damage verbally. He urged the men to treat all riders in a courteous manner, and by so doing they will not only carry out the wishes of the officials, but will also be held in high esteem by their many patrons.

Supt. Irwin was next called upon, and during his talk pictures of railway systems throughout the country were shown. Several taken in Merrimack square were thrown on the screen, together with others taken in Boston and nearby cities, where the surroundings were familiar to the men. Instruction cards, equipped with air brakes, emergency brakes, etc., were among the pictures shown. With all the speaker explained their importance and laid particular stress upon the operation of the emergency brakes and the reverse. He showed how many accidents have been averted by the quick and cool work of the motorman and also told of the part that many conductors have taken in averting accidents. His talk was a very instructive one and was listened to with close attention.

At the conclusion of the addresses, both speakers were tendered a rising vote of thanks. Refreshments were served and an entertainment program was carried out.

BURGLAR INVADDED WOMAN'S ROOM

She Screamed and He Went Out With Window Frame on His Shoulders

Agnes Laliberte, a maiden lady, who has been living alone at 21 Cabot street thinks this is a very bad city or at least that there are some very bad people in it. She intends to move away from her present abode, believing the house is haunted. At least it seemed so last Saturday night for after she had retired for the night and migrated to the land of dreams, she was rudely aroused by a marauder in her room. She went to bed soon after 9 o'clock and was aroused from a sound sleep at 9:45 by the man in her room, which shows that she is not troubled with insomnia.

She awoke, she screamed, she shouted "help," "police," "burglar," "villain," "villain!" and other such epithets, whereupon the intruder begged of her not to yell and he would get out quick. He did so and it is understood that he went so very quickly that he took a window sash on his shoulders. After his departure Miss Laliberte screamed some more for at that time she had not ascertained whether the man had taken her jewelry, her money or something else.

The neighborhood was soon aroused. Mr. Wilfred Jean and Mr. St. Armand rushed in to find the man but regretted to find that Miss Laliberte had driven him out so abruptly.

She could give but a meagre description of the man but after he left by a rear window, she heard him clamber over several fences in the neighboring back yards.

The officer on the beat was notified and he investigated but could not find any trace of the man.

Miss Laliberte examined her effects to see if anything had been stolen but found nothing missing.

Napoleon Nonkan saw a strange man enter a downstairs flat that evening but thought he was a tenant and paid no more attention to the matter.

Miss Laliberte realizes that it is an awful thing to be living alone when a burglar happens to call, especially when the only occupant is asleep. She has been advised by friends to keep a revolver in the house and within reach while she sleeps so that if disturbed by any night prowler she will be able by a slight movement of the forefinger, to prepare him for the undertaker. Another friend has advised her to get a good strong bulldog to stay near her at night, ready to grapple with any burglar who appears. Still another and perhaps the most sensible advises her to get a husband to protect her as a man in the house is useful sometimes for keeping out such characters unless he stays out nights.

One of the wags of the neighborhood offered the suggestion that Miss Laliberte should have the locks on her doors and windows so arranged that when a man gets into her room he can't get out, but in such cases there is always someone ready to say something pretty mean. Miss Laliberte is a respectable and hard-working lady, who has worked for years in the Tremont & Suffolk. She has not yet decided what she will do and the police have not found the vile wretch who had evidently secreted himself in the house awaiting an opportunity to rob the occupant but he got left for she does not keep her money in her rooms anyhow. The burglars will have to rob a bank before they get her money.

ESCAPED FROM DANVERS

Two Men Recaptured in Lawrence Today

John Cahill of Salem and William Leahy of 135 Park street, South Lawrence, escaped from the Danvers Insane asylum, where they had been confined, about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, but were recaptured at Leahy's home at 2 o'clock this morning. The men were taken into custody by Officers John Sullivan and Dineen and were brought to the local police station. They will be returned to Danvers immediately.

35 PRISONERS BURNED TO DEATH

Negroes Trapped in Convict Cage and Screams of Agony Were Heard for Miles

JACKSON, Miss., July 22.—Trapped by flames on the second floor of an antiquated convict cage 35 negro prisoners were burned to death at the Oakley convict farm 20 miles from here late last night.

While the flames rapidly ate away the old stairway leading to the second floor the prisoners fractionally tore at the heavy bars that covered the jail windows but to no avail. Their screams of agony brought guards and other prison attaches but the flames drove back members of the rescue party each time they attempted to liberate the negroes, who one by one fell back into the flames and perished.

The building was constructed ten years ago of the lumber taken from a discarded penitentiary. There was no fire fighting apparatus at the farm and the first floor of the building was filled with inflammable material. Farmers of the vicinity hurried to the jail to help fight the fire but their efforts were unavailing. The convicts all were worked in the cotton fields of the state farm and were housed in the cage at night. Among them were some desperate criminals serving long sentences. The Oakley farm is one of the most important in the state, the state prison hospital being located there. No other building was in danger, however.

ERIE REFUSES TO JOIN ROADS

In Laying Difficulties Before the Federal Board—Negotiations With Road Suspended

NEW YORK, July 22.—The refusal of the Erie to join the other eastern railroads in laying its difficulties with conductors and trainmen before the federal board of mediation and conciliation caused the board to suspend negotiations with the railroad managers conference committee and representatives of the employees today and devote attention to this minor problem.

The mediators reached this decision because the situation on the Erie lines was considered pressing. The board suspended its formal conference with the representatives of the labor organizations and invited J. C. Stuart, vice president of the Erie to discuss the position of that road. Mr. Stuart was told that the situation required immediate action. Some of the labor leaders said that if the Erie maintained its stand a strike would be declared on this line as soon as arbitration proceedings with the other roads were under way.

At their meeting with the employees committee of 100 yesterday afternoon the mediators. It was learned today that the labor leaders accuse the Erie and the railroad managers of bad faith and the men expected that the Erie's officers would be asked to answer these charges at their conference with the board. W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declared that the Erie had withdrawn from the conference of eastern railroads with the consent of the managers conference to test whether the men really would strike. Mr. Lee insisted that further negotiations with the Erie were useless. The road, he said, was controlled by the bankers.

The trainmen then agreed, it was learned, to withdraw their threat to strike and subsequently the railroad managers informed the mediators that they, too, desired to have the Erie "return to the fold."

J. P. Morgan & Co. and two other banking institutions which he did not name, were declared by Mr. Lee to control the Erie situation at present.

Board Meets Committee

NEW YORK, July 22.—The demand of the eastern roads that their grievances against the men should receive immediate consideration, was the chief stumbling block before the federal board of conciliation today in its efforts to harmonize the railroad managers and their conductors and trainmen. The board this morning received a committee of 12, representing the two labor organizations and it is believed informed them that the managers at the final conference last night with the mediators had refused to withdraw their demand. At last night's meeting it is understood the mediators reported to the representatives of the railroads that the employees would not consent to have the counter demands of the roads arbitrated along with the original demands of the conductors and trainmen for better pay and working conditions. The managers insisted that their eight grievances be incorporated for articles of incorporation on the ground that if they are not considered at this time they could not be taken up again before there came about any award made by the board of arbitration.

The work of the mediators apparently has not passed the preliminary stage and it may be several days before they attain any definite results.

NEW ENGLAND RAILROADS

In these times when railroad news is so much in the air it is very much to the point that we should cease looking backward for a little while and question the future. Mr. Mellen has fallen a victim to his own ill advised ambition indirectly and to public disapproval directly and it is safe to assume that the forces which made his resignation compulsory will not be satisfied until the New Haven railroad dissociates itself from all that is included in his personal policies. Rightly or wrongly, his name has become a synonym for lawless consolidation and unwarranted monopoly, and the railroad he directed, and its subsidiaries will not receive the measure of public support and helpful co-operation requisite for their future success until they openly avow their intention of abandoning the search after impractical expansion, and show the people of this section that the interests of the patrons of the roads, the stockholders, and the New England business future are their primary considerations.

The first essential to success for the New Haven road is to adhere more closely than has been its wont to the terms of the Sherman law and the other transit laws which aimed to prevent unlawful monopoly. It must also conform itself with the recommendations of the Interstate Commerce commission as far as possible, for the people have in the main agreed with the findings of that body and will still continue to put faith in it. It must also start on an era of strict business administration to restore its physical property and get the railroad management into the good graces of its business clientele who feel generally that they are not being fairly treated in the freight transactions with the present company.

With the publication of the name of the new president, the people will form a pretty clear, if not an accurate conception of what they are to expect in the near future. As Mr. Mellen, as an individual, was held personally responsible for most of the mistakes made by the road, so will the new president be held responsible, and probably accorded an undue amount of credit for any changes for the better in the future conduct of the road. It is therefore very important that he be more of a railroad man than a financier. The faults of Mr. Mellen were due greatly to his dealing with the future of the New Haven as an abstract financial problem instead of a concrete business proposition. The man most persistent by name for the position by rumor is President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific, and he is generally credited with having the qualities necessary to get the New Haven road out of the ditch of popular disfavor into which Mr. Mellen had plunged it. Time may justify the ambitions of the late president in part, but if his successor counts on the support of the people—without which he will be powerless to effect reforms—he will be forced to entirely abandon most of the schemes of the unpopular Mr. Mellen.

A failure to conform to the public requirements would have one direct result in the present attitude towards railroad problems—a strong demand for government ownership or control. Even the most ardent supporters of this regard it rather as a necessary evil than as a condition to be desired; it can be avoided by tact and frankness on the part of the local railroad managements; everything will depend on the declarations of the policy for the near future. For the industrial prosperity of New England it is to be hoped that the popular demand will be heeded.

IRISH HOME RULE

It was generally conceded both here and abroad after the recent move of Lord Lansdowne to postpone action on the Irish Home Rule bill until it had again been submitted to the judgment of the country, that there was danger in the situation. If there was nothing that would jeopardize the ultimate granting of the great reform, it looked as though the house of lords had discovered a technicality that would defeat the terms of the parliament bill under which the Home Rule bill was to become law automatically when, after the last rejection of the lords, the house of commons had passed it for the third time. If the action of Lord Lansdowne were to be supported constitutionally, supporters of the Home Rule bill would again be forced to begin at the beginning and run the chance of ministry changes and such accidents for some years to come.

It is, however, the general impression in England, as shown by the press, that the tactful move of Lord Lansdowne will avail the unionist cause. The parliament act provides that "a bill shall be deemed to be rejected by the house of lords if it is not passed by the house of lords either without amendment or with such amendment as may be agreed on by both houses." Thus, refusal of the lords to act on the Home Rule bill—or their so-called strike—is in itself virtually a rejection of the bill, which will now go on its way as though they had thrown it out in the natural order of things. After all, it is the spirit and not the letter of the law that counts in England as well as in America, and the lords have not made their political position in England more secure by this weak dallying with a law passed by the expressed wish of the people.

It is also being demonstrated, despite the reverses of a few bye elections, that the liberal ministry in England is in no danger of falling into popular disfavor. Lloyd George has recovered the prestige he endangered by an unwise connection with Marconi stocks, and his avowed intention of further reforming the house of lords has reinforced him in popular favor. The unionists have weakened their cause by taking sides with the violent Carsonites in the north of Ireland, as the declarations of the latter were taken in England as a defiance of the government as well as an expression of the most bitter and bitter animosity to home rule. At the present time the prospects of Irish Home rule are as bright as at any time during the present struggle, and as sure as anything can be that depends for its success on any future contingency.

DAVID I. WALSH

The formal announcement of David I. Walsh that he will be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor will put an end to the speculation and uncertainty that have clouded the question for some time past. He has acted with rare prudence and delicacy throughout, when confronted with the possibility of his running, and those who have followed recent political conditions in the state know that the position of Governor Foss has made it difficult for the lieutenant-governor to make formal announcement any sooner. His delay, however, has served to show him unmistakably that he will be the party choice by almost unanimous approval, and he may regard the attitude of the public towards him as a pretty good presage of success. There have been no valid reasons for a change in the attitude of the people of Massachusetts towards the democratic party since the last elections, and the last legislature which had a republican majority did much to turn the thoughts of the people towards the party and principles of the administration now in Washington and David I. Walsh in Massachusetts.

Concerning the propriety of Mr. Walsh's announcement and its probable effect, the Boston Herald—which is not democratic in bias—has the following:

By all the considerations of party usage and all the standards of fair play, political or otherwise, David I. Walsh of Fitchburg is entitled to the democratic nomination for governor this year. His formal announcement that he will actively seek the nomination has been delayed by his desire to prevent a party split, and now that he has put himself in the running, no other aspirant for the democratic nomination can longer stay under cover. There has been no serious idea that there would be any other such aspirant except Gov. Foss, and his plans and ambitions continue to remain a mystery.

The warmest political or personal friend of Mr. Walsh could not put the matter in a fairer or squarer light, and the announcement of the lieutenant-governor will probably clear some of the "mystery" from the plans of Gov. Foss. Mr. Walsh is the logical candidate, and he has strength and prestige sufficient to ensure a full state ticket and both houses of the legislature of his party. There should be no hesitation about affording him the fullest democratic support.

THE NEW POSTMASTER

The postmaster of the city of Lowell, if he is to make a success of his term of office and give general satisfaction while in possession of it, must regard the position not as an empty title or a reward for political services, but as a very serious business proposition affecting the interests of over one hundred thousand people.

It would be grossly unfair and contrary to the facts to assume that Postmaster Legare has been at all responsible for past conditions. He has served the people as well as was possible under the circumstances. He has been confronted with many new and more exacting conditions, and he carries with him on his retirement a large share of public esteem. But the growth in the needs of a larger city, the cry of the postal department for strict economy, and such large and important innovations as the parcels post system have done much to undermine and impair the efficiency of the service. Mail deliveries have been growing fewer and later, and there has been an evidence of inadequate service in the various departments at the postoffice. The stamp and postal order departments have not been handled satisfactorily, and the correspondence has been general dissatisfaction. There is ample opportunity for Postmaster Crowley to make improvements, and he will be backed by public opinion in every reasonable effort to improve the service.

Vice President Marshall was talking in New York about a famous millionaire. "The man is a great patriot," said the vice president. "I don't know of any man who is more patriotic than he. Yet, for all his patriotic talk, some people think he doesn't really love his country. The idea! I don't love his country. He loves his country so well that he'd take the whole of it if he could. As it is, he's taken far more than his share. Love his country, indeed! He positively loves it!"

A farmer rushed up to the home of a country doctor in the village late one night and besought him to come at once to a distant farmhouse. The medicine man hunched up his horse and they drove furiously to the farmer's home. Upon their arrival the farmer said: "How much is your fee, Doc?" "Three dollars," said the physician in surprise. "Give 'em," said the farmer, handing over the money; the blamed lawyerman wanted five dollars to drive me home!"

'Best I ever tasted,' was the reply."—London Opinion.

"Forget it," said his friend, who had spent a month last summer in the West. "I can tell you that the hotel here is a month's vacation in Colorado at a very reasonable expense. EDITORIAL COMMENT

David I. Walsh Boston Herald: David Walsh deserves the nomination. He is a popular young man. He has shown himself a good vote-getter. As the democratic candidate he will be a formidable factor in the November election, no matter whether there are three in the gubernatorial race, or four, as seems more likely.

Art and Literature Boston Post: No more inconsequential and inconsistent proposition could be advanced in the scheme of reform of the oppressive republican tariff than that of imposing a tax upon works of art and upon books in foreign languages. It is reported from Washington that President Wilson has expressed his astonishment that any such obstruction should be suggested.

Balances of Power Lewiston Sun: Bulgaria seems to have found that she bit off more than she could chew.

Balances of Power Europe: but when did it play faster than they are playing it in the Balkans?

Rather Suggestive Boston Globe: Considering the relations of Mexico and Japan, and the United States, isn't it rather suggestive that President Huerta should send Gen. Diaz to Japan just at this time, ostensibly to express the thanks of Mexico to Japan for the latter's participation in Mexico's centennial in 1910?

The Canadian government has supplied 25 million tree seedlings to farmers, principally in the Alberta and Regina plains region. The United States does not supply young trees to the public, except in a limited area in Nebraska, under the terms of the Kincaid act.

The federal lighthouse bureau and the forest service are co-operating in forest work. Though this sounds strange, it becomes a very simple fact, as pointed out by the officials of the bureau, that the co-operation is confined to the lighthouse districts on the shores of the Great Lakes in the lumber states of Michigan and Wisconsin. The lighthouse reservations here include a total of nearly 6500 acres, and range in size from 30 acres at Grand Island, Mich., to 1010 acres at Grand Marais, Wis.

An examination is just being started to determine the best forest methods to pursue on the reservations. On some, from which the timber has been cut, white pine and Norway pine will be planted. On others the timber already growing will be preserved through use. On two of the reservations, the forest experts point out, the opportunities are excellent for growing cedar and pine for spruce boughs and lighthouses bureau itself.

All parts of the reservations can not be devoted to forests. Some areas will have to be left clear for protection from fire, while others immediately adjacent to the deacons themselves will have to be left bare in order that the lights may not be obscured.

kans? The success of the great powers in keeping out of the struggle is admirable.

Inconsistent Fall River Herald: Mrs. Pankhurst defying the lightning when she challenges the government to do its worst in a taxicab when the government, in the persons of the policemen, comes after her display a striking inconsistency.

Lamar Boston Traveler: New York is still listening to denials that David Lamar, "the wolf of Wall street," told the truth. But why should New York concern itself with anybody's reputation for veracity? Does truth command a premium in the metropolis?

Mellen's Resignation Haverhill Gazette: The failure of Mr. Mellen, if failure it was, is purely personal. His retirement can have no adverse effect on the great railway systems that he controlled. The death of a Morgan or a Rockefeller or a Mellen is but a small part in the world happenings of a day. The great systems of transportation must go on. New blood and new brains will take up the work and, with less concentrated responsibility, the growth of both lines will keep pace with the growth of New England and help to maintain its reputation as one of the great trade and industrial centers of the country.

Keep Cool Lynn Telegram: It is bad enough for older people to be careless about themselves, but it is even worse to expose babies to the effect of the tremendous heat without proper precautions. Now, more than at any other time of the year, should careful attention be given to the diet of the small child, because of the instant, and sometimes fatal, effect of heat on little children who are over-fed or wrongly fed during hot waves.

For older people the remedy for avoiding prostration is so simple that it is too frequently neglected. Avoid the direct rays of the sun, eat sparingly, and shun ice water and alcohol altogether. Best of all, keep your temper, and do not add to your physical discomfort by verbal abuse of the abnormal climatic conditions.

Too Thin Worcester Post: Too thin to survive long is the pretense that the British house of lords did not "reject" the Irish home rule bill by rejecting a motion to give it a second reading. And this purpose of the pretense, to get an appeal to the country, because it has not passed upon the issue, is effectively nullified by the speeches of Lord Lansdowne, leader on the Tory side, that a vote for the liberals at the last election was a vote for home rule.

The Directors Salem News: Some of the comments called out by the retirement of Charles S. Mellen from the presidency of the New Haven road is a reflection on the fact that he was supreme in his station, that whatever he did was done of his own volition, and that such a thing as a motion picture of him in the role of a director—for directors are not all composed of dummies even in these strenuous days—never entered into his calculations. This is what makes the criticism silly, and in some cases venomous.

FOREST NOTES

A shingle mill in Maine uses 2000 cords of paper birch each year in the manufacture of toothpicks.

The new Chinese republic has established a department of agriculture and forestry. For a long time China had been pointed out as the most backward nation in forest work.

A toy company at Sheboygan, Wis., started out to use only the waste wood from other mills. It has worked out a system of using all small waste pieces so that practically nothing but the sawdust is lost.

Austria not only sells timber but timber products from its forest lands, and disposes of about 1,500,000 railway ties a year. There is no provision in the United States by which the national forests can dispose of manufactured lumber, though the policy of selling standing timber is well established.

The Canadian government has supplied 25 million tree seedlings to farmers, principally in the Alberta and Regina plains region. The United States does not supply young trees to the public, except in a limited area in Nebraska, under the terms of the Kincaid act.

Girl Died Under Mys-
terious Circumstances
In Boston

BOSTON, July 22.—Speeding in a high-powered automobile toward a Boston hotel where his daughter, Miss E. E. Beebe, had just died under mysterious circumstances, J. Arthur Beebe, a wealthy business man, was halted in a tragic way last night, when his car ran over and fatally injured a boy in Chelsea. After taking the boy, Harry Sombersky, 19 years old, to the Naval hospital, where he died, the anguished father was forced to wait further while his chauffeur was arrested, charged with killing the lad, went through the formality of giving bond and was able finally to resume his run to this city. When he arrived at the hotel, Mr. Beebe learned that his daughter registered there yesterday morning, was taken ill in the afternoon and sent for a physician, saying that she was suffering from poison. The doctor had difficulty in entering the room. When he was able to go in he found the young woman dead. The cause of death, according to the physician, was "heart trouble." Miss Beebe had been suffering from nervous trouble for three years. She had been living recently at the family's summer home in Manchester, Mass.

CARDINAL GIBBONS IS 74 TODAY

HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL GIBBONS

Observes Birthday in Baltimore, the Place of His Birth—Says "Life is Nearly Spent"

BALTIMORE, Md., July 22.—James Cardinal Gibbons who is celebrating his 74th birthday here in the town of his birth says that he does not expect to live much longer.

"My life is nearly spent," he told a visitor. "I will soon be an octogenarian, and nature must take its course. God has blessed me with a long life, and I am ready to answer whenever He sees fit to call me to render an account of my stewardship. I think it will not be long now, and there was no sorrow in his voice. And when the call comes, I think it will be a sudden one. We should all be ready for the call, because we don't know how soon it may come."

"I still feel young," he smiled. "You know it is the soul that makes us young or old. If our souls be young, though our bodies be as old as Methuselah, we are young indeed."

Cardinal's Career

Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore, was taken to Ireland in his boyhood, where a liberal education was begun. On returning to America he entered St. Charles College, Maryland, where he graduated with distinction in 1837. Thence he went to St. Mary's Seminary, where he was ordained a priest in 1861 by Archbishop Patrick Kenrick.

He was at once assigned to duty as assistant priest at St. Patrick's Church, East Baltimore, under Father James Dolan.

Next he was sent as pastor to the then struggling parish of St. Bridget's at Canton, where he struggled so faithfully that he soon won recognition from his ecclesiastical superiors, and in a few years he was made private secretary to Archbishop Spaulding, Dr. Kenrick's successor.

Later the archbishop recommended him for the episcopate, and in 1858 he was consecrated bishop in the Baltimore Cathedral.

Wrote "Faith of Our Fathers"

In four years he was again promoted, such remarkable executive ability. Had he displayed, and became bishop of Richmond. It was here that he wrote "The Faith of Our Fathers," a book especially designed to give Southerners an idea of Catholic doctrine. It sold by the thousands, and has been translated into every language.

In five years more he built several churches in Richmond, also founding St. Peter's Cathedral, academy and parochial school.

On May 20, 1877, he was appointed coadjutor, with the right of succession to Archbishop Dayley of Baltimore, and was installed archbishop Feb. 10, 1878.

In 1887 he received the red hat of the cardinalate from Pope Leo XIII, and was welcomed on his return from Europe by one of the most imposing public demonstrations ever witnessed in Baltimore.

Founder of Catholic University

He was one of the founders of the Catholic University at Washington. His influence at the Vatican was great, and his representations were said to be the cause of the Pope's famous encyclicals on the labor question.

The cardinal's mode of living has always been simple in the extreme. His library is one of the most extensive private collections in the country.

When asked recently to comment on Miss Inez Mitchell's talk, "The mission of the church is to define faith and morals. In other matters, individuals decide for themselves. Miss Mitchell is in error if she says the Catholic church is opposed to suffrage."

DAY NURSERY KEPT BUSY

of 5 or 6 years, who have been brought to the nursery each day and taken care of while the parents work, since the time when they were but a few weeks old.

In addition to being a day nursery for the care of children whose parents are obliged to work and who cannot give proper attention to their children during the day, the institution is a temporary home and as such accommodates several "home children," which is the term applied by those in charge to the little ones who remain there day and night until some better arrangements can be made for them. These receive the same care that is afforded children who are inmates of orphan asylums and homes for the destitute.

The children at the Day Nursery are of various nationalities. This morning there were several Greek and Polish babies and a Belgian child, which the matron declared to be, in her opinion, the prettiest and most attractive in the house. Mrs. Nelson is herself a lover of children and takes delight in showing the little ones to visitors. The work of giving them proper care is quite trying, and requires unspeakable patience on the part of the matron and her assistants of which there are four. Mrs. Nelson, with her extreme fondness for the little ones, is an authority on matters relating to their proper care and under her direction, very little trouble of any sort is experienced.

There are at present in the nursery two Polish children, the mother of whom, Lina, is insane and was sent to an asylum at Worcester. One of these children, (both are boys) is extremely quiet while the other appears to be of an irritable temperament. In both extremes, they appear abnormal, a fact which Mrs. Nelson attributed to constant association with an unbalanced mother, they are being cared for day and night at the nursery, awaiting the arrival of the authorities from Boston to take them to the state asylum in that city.

Pay Very Small

For caring for the children throughout the day, the authorities of the day nursery receive a sum of money that is ridiculously small. The maximum charge is ten cents which is required in case of one child. Where there are two or more, the charge for the care is ten cents for the first and five cents each per day for the others, the amount being set with a view to placing the advantages of the institution within the reach of all parents who cannot and time to devote to the care of their children during the day.

A number of years ago, the number of little ones who were brought to the institution for care during the day was quite small compared with the number at the present time. The place has grown rapidly and the advantages which it affords the needy working people are becoming daily more evident.

Following the strike in the mills here, the Day Nursery was resorted to more than ever by the mothers and fathers, perhaps owing to the shortage of money which their idleness must have caused. The children who are brought to the Nursery vary from the age of only a few weeks to 11 years. There are playrooms in the house with various means of amusement and play for the little girls and boys. There is another nursery in the basement, where are house physicians who look after the ill of the children of both and these are Doctors Pillsbury, Plunkett and Lathrop.

An added advantage of the Kirk street institution is the fact that it is situated quite near the Pease street playground so that the children can go there under the guidance of one of those in charge and spend part of the day in wholesome outdoor play with the means afforded at the recreation park. This morning there were 25 of the children from the nursery in charge of two matrons, all laughing and shouting and to all appearances keenly enjoying the various games, the swings, and other amusements which the grounds have for them.

Although the Kirk Street Day Nursery is in a flourishing condition, its needs being supplied by contributions and funds in charge of a committee, nevertheless, there are certain things which are lacking which if contributed would add greatly to the happiness of the little ones and to the success in general of the institution. In the first place there is a scarcity of proper clothing and if the people of Lowell would send contributions of children's garments to the Kirk street temporary home, the authorities would greatly appreciate the assistance and accept the offerings with the deepest gratitude. Then again, in such a place the supplying of sufficient and proper food for the children is another problem for many are lost and broken in a day, sometimes leaving the supply on hand hardly adequate. It is quite certain that there are many houses in the city where such toys that would bring joy to the hearts of the children at the Nursery are discarded and thrown away, and in such cases the sending of these to the institution would be of untold help to those in charge.

The greatest number of children that have been cared for in the Day Nursery in any one day thus far is 62. Contributions of all sorts are made daily by interested people who have a desire to help in the work and whose contributions are strong factors in the success of the Day Nursery. Mrs. Nelson, the matron, makes the very best use of everything placed in her charge for the benefit of the children.

KISSED WIFE AND THEN SHOT HER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 22.—"Kiss me good bye and I'll go away and never bother you again." With this request Albert Snyder, 36, approached his wife today as she was about to enter a downtown store where she was employed as bookkeeper, threw his arms about her neck and fired a bullet into her forehead. He then fired a ball into his own brain. At the hospital it was stated recovery of either was doubtful. Recently Mrs. Snyder instituted proceedings for divorce.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE FOR MURDER

WINCHESTER, Ky., July 22.—Andrew Johnson was today found guilty of complicity in the assassination of Ed Callahan, former sheriff and noted feudist of Breathitt county, and was given life sentence. The trial of Fletcher Beaton, also charged with conspiracy in the assassination plot, was begun immediately. There are 13 more to be tried for the murder and 12 for perjury.

MISS GRACE YOUNG
Who Will be Seen at the Merrimack Square Soon

Merrimack Square Theatre

Excellent vaudeville acts together with motion pictures of the highest order make the bill at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, one which cannot fail to please those who attend the performances. Large audiences were present at the performances yesterday and last night and went away pleased.

"The Cowboy Girl" is the headliner and is a delightful sketch depicting life in the west. The story is cleverly constructed and hinges on the efforts of a girl to prevent a short from capturing a man who is wanted for homicide. The humorous situations are many and the piece is generously sprinkled with clean sparkling comedy.

Johnny Gray and his banjo figure prominently on the bill. Besides playing the instrument in a pleasing manner, Mr. Gray executes some new dancing steps and songs. His big stunt is seen when he dances a buck and wing while playing an air on a harmonica and an accompaniment on the banjo. His banjo playing is excellent. William Carr is a Lowell boy, who contributes some excellent whistling solos to the bill. Lillian Shanny sings songs that are beautifully illustrated. The photographs are above the ordinary this week and the two reel feature is entitled "The Failure of Success." There are also several others, including a farce comedy.

BIG MONEY FOR LOBBY WORK

Said to Have Been Paid Former Rep. Watson—May Not be Cross-Examined

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Attorneys for the National Association of Manufacturers may not be permitted to cross examine Martin M. Mulhall, the confessed lobbyist before the Senate investigating committee. When Attorney Robert McCarter for the manufacturers suggested cross examination of Mulhall on his story that former Representative James E. Watson of Indiana had been paid a retainer of $500 and a weekly salary of $250 to work for the passage of a tariff commission bill with a promise of an additional $10,000 if the bill was successful, Senator Reed, the committee questioner, declared himself against a cross examination, but proposed that questions be submitted to the committee. The point was not finally decided.

Mulhall today swore that he drew $500 from a Baltimore bank to be paid to Watson.

Mulhall swore that Watson had made the office here of James A. Emery his headquarters after he was defeated for governor of Indiana in 1908.

Emery, Mulhall said, was the "chief lobbyist" for the manufacturers.

He declared that former Senator Henryway of Indiana occupied rooms next to Emery and that Watson was in one office or the other much of the time.

On Feb. 4, 1908, in a letter to Schwedman Mulhall got into Illinois politics and brought in former Senator Hopkins, who was defeated for reelection by William Lorimer. Mulhall wrote of the senatorial deadlock at Springfield:

"We are spreading the impression that on account of the contemptible stand taken by Hopkins at the convention in Chicago last June, wherein he was extremely unfair to the manufacturing industries in refusing them a hearing before the committee on resolutions and in packing that committee in favor of the Gompers crowd, he has in a large measure brought his fight upon his own shoulders."

Athletes and Athletics

Henderson is some pitcher, but you fans ought to see him play now. This writer won the amateur pool title over in New York and believe us, he is some lad with the cue. It goes as a bet by the writer that there isn't a man in these parts who can hold a candle to the always smiling pitcher of the local team.

Joe Egan, Gilbert Gallant, Eddie Murphy or any other New Englander worthy of note has the chance that all of them are talking so much about at a meeting of the local athletic club. These boys are ready to talk about boxing but whether or not they really want to meet each other will be decided in the next few weeks. The local club certainly has an even better reputation than the club in Boston for getting on and furnishing the incentive for class performers.

The "Pride of Springfield" Rabbit Maraville, still keeps on with that effortless fielding game. In vast contrast to the majority of ball players who have tribute paid them by their home towns, the "Rabbit" has not gotten a "fat head" for a minute. Maraville played the same brilliant game in the field last Saturday, the day of his celebration, that he always displays and, so far as the writer could judge, was not inflated to any great extent by an opinion of his own playing. "Rabbit" if you credit to the people who traveled from Springfield to do you honor.

Those Athletics still look to be the real thing even though Count Mack is hard up for pitching material. The wily Mack has achieved such a lead that it will indeed be a difficult feat to lead him off before the close of the American league season. Manager Birmingham of Cleveland asserts that his club will turn the last corner of the race in the best of form and head of the Athletics but it hardly seems reasonable to expect Birmingham has turned out a mighty good team this year and no mistake but he has a long road to cover before he catches Mr. Mack of the Philadelphia Americans.

The Greek colony in Lowell has organized a baseball team under the name of the Athens which is bearing itself right proudly among the various amateur teams in this vicinity. Last Saturday they defeated two teams one of them being a first semi-professional club from Waltham.

The Freddie Maguire-Gardner Brooks bout which takes place next Saturday at Spaulding Park, is causing more talk among the local followers of the sport than the appearance of Jack Johnson would create. Each contends that he is the other's superior and the members of the club have an exciting ten rounds ahead of them. While Maguire is clever in all probability he will waste into the youngster with the one thought in mind of passing over that punch.

President Navin of the Detroit club appears to be deeply incensed over the recent rumors that he stands ready to exchange Ty Cobb for Tris Speaker of the Red Sox. The Detroit magnate admits that the equal of Cobb has never been produced and says that there is nothing but idle gossip to the stories about the proposed deal. Those on the inside, however, seem to think that the trade may be pulled off eventually.

The time has now arrived when the ball clubs with pennant aspirations are calling upon all their reserve forces. As in the major leagues the "little old circuit" is tightening up. Every manager in the first division is grooming his charges for the final dash to the tape. Manager Gray's boys look to be in the best shape for that last hard pull.

The end has not yet been reached in the St. Paul-McClellan controversy. The "big noise," Ban Johnson is incensed over what he terms the injustice done to the former Red Sox manager. It was bad enough to release the leader of the world's champions in the middle of the season without adding the further disgrace of performing the operation in his home town, argues Ban. It will be remembered that the president of the American league deposed one John I. Taylor not long ago from a club presidency and who knows what may occur when the present tangle in the league is cleared up?

The management of the Triangle A. A. certainly has faith in the sporting public of Lowell when they offer the card to their members which is billed for next Saturday. Notwithstanding the fact that the club sunk nearly half a thousand in their first bill four round bouts will be furnished at Spaulding Park. It now remains to be seen whether the fans will support a club which puts on its advertise cards regardless of expense to the promoters. From the contests furnished at the last meeting it would seem that the new athletic club would receive the hearty cooperation of all its members.

Morning practice may be an important factor in a team's mid-season work and then again it may not be. Connolly, left fielder of the Braves, was injured in yesterday's morning's practice at the National league grounds and allowed two of the Cubs' base runners to score in the afternoon.

Challenge for Lowell Coups
The professional and business men who broke into the baseball field at an outing recently held at the Genoa club grounds in Tyngsboro have selected nine of their best men and have issued a challenge to Manager Eddie Connors of the Lowell police team. The two teams, one of which was captained by John J. McClure and the other by George Allard are of the opinion that from out of that large aggregation of baseball material they can select an outfit that will prove superior to the cops. If Manager Connors accepts the game will in all probability be played the latter part of this week.

HERZOG OF GIANTS HAS BEEN
WARMING THE BENCH RECENTLY

Charley Herzog, who usually plays third base for the Giants and who also raises canteen on his Maryland farm, has recently suffered a batting slump, and Manager McGraw has been letting him warm the bench. Herzog's average for the season is .283, which

WISE BREAKS RECORD
BROCKTON WINS FROM LOWELL

Hits Bulls-eye 103 Times
at Wakefield

BOSTON, July 22.—Capt. Stuart W. Wise of Brockton, who has won international honors as a marksman, yesterday, at the fifth annual meeting of the New England Military Rifle association on the Wakefield range, made a new world's record when he placed within the bulls-eye 103 consecutive shots at the 500-yard range.

As shot after shot sped from the military rifle of the marksman groups of officers gathered about him to see the accomplishment of his feat, whispering among themselves so as to avoid making any noise to disturb the record breaking captain, the 103th shot, fired in the twilight fell less than an inch below the black dot into the ring marked number 1. He had done what no other living man had been able to accomplish.

The first man to rush over to Capt. Wise and shake his hand heartily was Jas. W. Hession of Bridgeport, Conn., who has held the former record of 57 bulls-eyes since 1903, made at Camp Perry, Ohio. Mr. Hession held the tired captain's hand for almost a minute, lauding him to the skies for his remarkable feat.

However, Capt. Wise, in his modest way, hung his head and brushed off the dirt from his clothes and stretched himself to get the kinks out of his body, due to his laying on the ground in the same position for one hour and 58 minutes while making his record.

When interviewed as to how he felt over his wonderful feat Capt. Wise merely said: "I never felt better in my life and after making two bulls-eyes in my two stinging shots I felt that I could hit that bulls-eye forever. When I reached Hession's record of 57 bulls-eyes I was greatly elated, but subdued my emotions and from then on took great pains and kept my eye on the target almost continuously lest I should lose my gauge."

The weather conditions were almost perfect and I was not troubled by anything but my eyesight which in the gathering dusk finally brought about my failure on the 104th shot."

FOSS AS G.O.P. NOMINEE

Move to Have Governor
Run as Republican

BOSTON, July 22.—The talk, plentiful for months past, that Gov. Eugene N. Foss would this year run for reelection on the republican ticket, crystallized into action yesterday when ex-Senator William A. Nye of Bourne took out 25 nomination papers to circulate among the republicans on the Cape.

Ever a supporter of Gov. Foss "Bill" Nye had for some time past made no secret of his belief that the governor ought to run as a republican, and yesterday he visited Boston expressly to start things that way. After making the rounds of the politicians, he reached the office of the secretary of the commonwealth about 4.45, and took the papers out.

"Does Gov. Foss give his consent to this?" asked Sec. Frank J. Donahue? "I don't care whether he does or not," replied the ex-senator. "Does he know anything about it?" Sec. Donahue asked again. "He will before the week is out," was the answer.

It appears in fact that Gov. Foss did not know anything about it, but the plan originated solely with ex-Senator Nye and other republicans on the Cape, who believe that the governor will take the nomination if they tender it to him.

Gov. Foss, asked last evening if he had taken out republican nomination papers, gave an abrupt "No." "Then asked if he had authorized their being taken out, he hung up the telephone receiver. A later question as to whether he knew ex-Senator Nye's activities found him retired to bed.

Among other party heads and officials the news of the move by the Cape republicans caused a general surprise. Some, like Col. Everett C. Benton, announced candidacies for the republican nomination, could not believe it, others, as Chairman Thomas P. Riley, of the democratic state committee, refused to take it seriously.

A SHORT RESPIRE
Remember we close at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow for the druggists' annual outing and do not open until Thursday. Buy today if possible. Howard, the Druggist, 197 Central street.

There is an old adage that runs: As the twig is bent, so will the tree incline. As with the twig so with the boy and young man.

The most natural trait of the boy is "play," and he will take his share without the slightest urging. But while he is developing his body, how about his mind? There is where the rub comes. For as you know, the most perfect machine will not run unless it is properly adjusted and balanced. The boy and young man of today will be the men of tomorrow, and in a certain sense, are machines. The development of the body while the mind is allowed to remain in a comatose state is bound to work havoc with the nerve system.

Now, here is where the game of POOL, where taught and played right, affords the proper relaxation for the mind-tissues that is necessary for them. In playing the game of pool, to bring various shots to a successful completion, the player has to "think" these shots out and this is one of the phases of the game that presents a line of thought that is different from any to be gotten in any other pastime.

Adams' Wildness Cause of Defeat

—Billy McMahon in Brockton
Lineup—Score 7 to 4

Pitcher Adams lost another game for Lowell yesterday through his wildness at critical moments. Adams passed six men, not to mention two wild pitches and a bad error on which two runs came across for Brockton. The final score in yesterday's game with the Shoemakers was Brockton 7, Lowell 4.

Brockton started her scoring in the first inning but when the fourth inning was reached the score stood, Lowell 4 and Brockton 2. Swapp, who started the game for Brockton, was yanked in this inning and Condrick, a recruit, who replaced him, allowed the local team but one hit and not a tally.

His pitching in the game was the feature of the game. Dancy, as usual, was Lowell's mainstay with the stick, while Halstein and Dee also hit opportunely. Billy McMahon of this city played short stop for Brockton and needed his position sensationally. McMahon's single also scored a run in the seventh inning when he hit safely to left field.

The score:
BROCKTON
Maloney, lf 1 2 2 0 0 0
Dowd, 2b 3 0 1 2 0 0

CHINA TRADE DISLOCATED

Through Proclamation of
Kwang Tung Province

CANTON, July 22.—Trade throughout southern China has been dislocated through the proclamation of the independence of the province of Kwang Tung. In this city great anxiety has been created, stores have been closed and many merchants have telegraphed to shippers not to consign goods here for the present.

A great many people have left the city in junks and others have gone north on foot. Thousands more have flocked into the Portuguese colony of Macao and into Hong Kong, among the latter being officials who have retired from their posts carrying with them millions of dollars in silver and paper money.

There is a strong feeling of resentment throughout the southern provinces against the policy of Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai but it is felt in most quarters that it will be impossible to resist him for long as he commands a large trained army, possesses money and has the powers support.

BACK FROM SOUTH AMERICA
37 Members of Boston Chamber of Commerce Toured Central and South American Countries

NEW YORK, July 22.—On board the Vassari, which arrived yesterday afternoon from So. American ports, were 37 members of the Boston chamber of commerce, who left Boston April 24th to tour Central and South American countries. The object of their trip was to study and if possible, to better trade conditions between this country and the South American republics. The party was composed of representative New England business men. The chairman was Col. Henry L. Kincaide, a merchant and banker of Quincy, Mass.

Battleship to Protect Americans
VERA CRUZ, July 22.—The United States battleship Louisiana left here last night under full speed. She is bound for Tuxham, where it is understood Americans and other foreign residents are in need of protection. American families are seeking refuge here, fearing that disturbances may follow the demonstrations in honor of the new Japanese minister.

CHANGES ON BAY STATE
Due to 9 in 11 Hour Law
Now in Effect

All cars on the local division of the Bay State Street Railway were "bumped" the first of this week, and many changes have been made in the crowd who have charge of the cars. Every three months the employees of the railway are allowed the privilege of bidding for cars, the one who has been in the employ of the company the longest term having first choice and so on down the list.

The 9 in 11 law, which went into effect this week has made it necessary to change the crews during the day as the Bay State is very strict in obeying this law. Any employee who does not wish to work more than nine hours in eleven is relieved by another after his nine hours' work is done, while the "relief" man may work on one car but a few hours and be shifted to another to finish his day's work. Some of the men have expressed their desire to work more than the nine hours and there is nothing in the law that can stop them. The officials are having a hard time in arranging the schedule so that a man is not worked longer than the time allowed him, but it is believed that after they become more familiar with the schedule it will be satisfactory to all.

On to the Beach
The excursion held today under the auspices of the Bay State Street railway consisted of three large special cars containing about 150 happy picnickers. The cars conveyed the group to Revere beach, arriving there about 10 o'clock this morning. The excursionists enjoyed themselves at the different amusement places along the boulevard. The return trip will be made early this evening.

50 GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH

MAYOR O'DONNELL AND OTHER OFFICIALS

Appeared Before the Legislative Committee Today Relative to an Isolation Hospital

Mayor O'Donnell, Commissioner Cummings, Dr. Brimble, chairman of the board of health, and Agent Bates of the board of health, went to Boston today to appear before the special legislative committee on tuberculosis. This committee is investigating the tuberculosis situation in Massachusetts and the committee has the power to summon any and all witnesses. The Lowell men were not summoned. Mayor O'Donnell received a letter from the committee requesting his attendance at the hearing and his honor was directed to take along other witnesses if he so desired.

The hearing was begun shortly after two o'clock and the committee's most important question had to do with the erection and maintenance of an isolation hospital in this city. Why has the city of Lowell neglected to build an isolation hospital as provided by law and as required by the state board of health?

That was the substance of the question and Mayor O'Donnell answered in

NEW YORK FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 22.—Fifty factory girls were burned to death here this afternoon. Clinging to the dozens to the fire escapes and shrieking in agony for help, they were mowed down by the great sheets of flames which belched up the entire building occupied by the Freeman Overall Co. within 20 minutes.

Many of the girls flung themselves headlong from the factory windows on the pavements.

125 Girls in Factory

One hundred and twenty-five girls were in the factory when the fire was discovered. Twelve have been rushed to the hospital with terrible burns.

How many are still penned in the building is unknown.

At 3.45 two bodies were seen lying in Davison street and completely in two. Others can be seen in the ruins.

The factory of Mitchell & Church, the Automatic Music Co. and other business places were also gutted. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Had Stick of Explosive in Pocket Which Went Off During Wrestling Bout With His Brother

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 22.—"Take that dynamite out of your hip pocket before we do any more wrestling, Marty," said Roland Funk to his brother while the young men were having a wrestling bout today. Martin did not bother to remove the explosive from his person so when he was thrown on his back by a quick shift of his brother the dynamite exploded and he was blown to pieces. Roland's left arm was blown from his body. The boys, who had not yet reached their majority and whose home was in Hudson, had been camping in a tent near Germantown.

WIDOWS OF MAN LIVE TOGETHER

Victims of Double Life of Wilfrid Frost Take Children and Agree to Live in Same House

LA CROSSE, Wis., July 22.—A secret in the exposure of the double life of Wilfrid Frost, which came out at the time of his death in a Chicago hospital on Feb. 28, developed today. When the Chicago widow of Frost came to La Crosse, effected a reconciliation with the La Crosse widow and left with her and the latter's children for Chicago, the two women agreeing to make their home together for the rest of their lives.

In Chicago Frost had a wife, a son of 21 years and a daughter 19 years old. In La Crosse, where he was known as Dr. Wilfrid B. Montclair, he had a wife and two boys, one three and the other two years old. Until his death each family was in ignorance of the existence of the other and Frost or Montclair was considered a model husband and father whose business took him away from home much of the time. The revelation of his double life prostrated both widows.

LOBBYIST MULHALL RETRACTS CHARGE

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Martin J. Mulhall, the lobbyist witness before the senate committee today retracted his charge that former Rep. Watson of Indiana was employed by private interests while a member of congress to work for a tariff commission bill. Mulhall said he "was mistaken."

"I want to correct a statement I made about Watson," said Mulhall. "He did not get the money before he left congress but afterwards. I was mistaken about the dates."

"War List" Introduced

A "war list" including six congressmen, said to have been marked for defeat by former Speaker Cannon and former Rep. James E. Watson was offered in evidence before the senate lobby committee today by Martin J. Mulhall, confessed lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Augustus P. Gardner of Massachusetts, Gilbert N. Haughen of Iowa, Victor Murdock of Kansas, E. A. Morse, J. H. Nelson and Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin were the marked list.

Mulhall on March 17, 1905, wrote Secy. Schwedeman of the manufacturers to that effect.

FOR PROTECTION OF AMERICANS

Sen. Fall Wants Resolution Passed at Once—Sen. Bacon Urges That Troops be Sent to Mexico

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Senator Fall of New Mexico today called up his resolution for the protection of Americans in foreign countries. It refers to conditions in Mexico. Chairman Bacon of the foreign relations committee demanded it be sent to that committee that its terms might be carefully weighed.

"Words are serious things at times," he said, "and this is one of the times."

Senator Fall asked that it be passed at once, asserting that it was thoroughly understood by every senator.

Senator Bacon asked if the resolution did not mean that the United States should send an armed force into Mexico to protect American citizens.

Senator Stone reviewing certain conditions in Mexico, declared he would favor sending an armed force.

Senator Williams maintained that a citizen of the United States has no constitutional rights in foreign countries. Amended, he thought, such a resolution ought to be passed to strengthen the arm of the secretary of state.

Senator Works Aided

"Are we prepared now to declare this government as set forth in this resolution prepared to give full protection to her citizens in Mexico?"

"Full protection must necessarily mean that if our citizens in Mexico cannot be protected by diplomatic means we are prepared to go to war with Mexico," he added. "I submit that before the secretary makes a declaration to that effect the question should be thoroughly and satisfactorily considered."

Senator Fall, aroused by which he termed intimations by senators that he was seeking to precipitate war with the resolution, made a stirring reply.

"My sole purpose," said he, "throughout this and the former administration, has been to prevent war with Mexico. I urged the last administration to realize the situation in Mexico and to act so as to prevent war. But matters have dragged on until now we are told the situation is so delicate that we should not make a declaration of this broad principle. The senator from New Mexico is not responsible for conditions in Mexico. It is the delay, the failure of the administration to act, the failure of the administration to carry out its warnings to the people of Mexico that is responsible for conditions that will continue so long as this policy of delay continues."

Senator Lodge declared he knew that despatches from American consuls were so trusted by the administration here last winter that the consuls were afraid to assert themselves.

"I want to ask the senator from New Mexico if it is not true that the German minister made the Mexican government pay him ten thousand marks for the murder of a German citizen and if it is not also true that a member of the German legation went to a court-martial and rescued an American citizen, whose own people could do nothing because they were not backed up by their government? CLARKSDALE, Miss., July 22.—The state of Mississippi today brought suit against the Illinois Central and the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley roads, asking $50,000,000 in penalties for alleged violation of a law forbidding consolidation of parallel and competing lines of railroads and damage that the two roads be ordered to cease doing business in the state.

NEW HOSPITAL SITE IS OFFERED

The meeting of the municipal council scheduled for this forenoon proved a very brief affair and despite the fact that the council was in session for less than 20 minutes, quite a raft of business was transacted. A big list of routine matters were over to this evening at 7.30 when the council will hold another meeting. At the meeting this evening the municipal council will give the Trades and Labor council a hearing on the public bath question. The Trades and Labor council having asked for a hearing in the matter, as in favor of baths.

The meeting was cut in two this forenoon because Mayor O'Donnell and Commissioner Cummings wanted to get the 12.12 train for Boston to attend the hearing before the special committee of the legislature appointed to investigate the tuberculosis situation in Massachusetts. Alderman Barrett was not at the meeting this forenoon, but it was stated that he would attend the hearing in Boston. Aldermen Brown and Donnelly will not attend. Mayor O'Donnell received a communication from the committee a few days

GIRL "KIDNERS"

At Summer Playgrounds Have a Friend Who Sends Along a Dollar

For the girl "kidners" at the summer playground.

From a Friend.

That's just exactly how the note read. It was received this forenoon by John Woodbury Kernan, superintendent of parks, and there was a crisp new $1 bill enclosed.

"I don't like the wording of the note very well," said Mr. Kernan, "but I admire the spirit in which the money was spent."

"I suppose you will buy an automobile with the dollar," suggested the reporter. Mr. Kernan doesn't like to be "kidded" about that automobile that he was going to get, with emphasis on the "was going."

"No, I will not buy an automobile. Unless I hear from the sender of the note and $1 bill. I will spend the money for a croquet set for the Alken street playground and if I could receive fifty more crisp bills I wouldn't care how the notes read that accompanied them," said the superintendent.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE CHILDREN

Sergt. Daley Runs Cycle
Into Curb to Avert
Collision

Responding to Call—
Hurled Against Tree
and is Dying

RUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—Desk Sergeant Daley of the Lackawanna police force is dying today from injuries received when he swerved his motorcycle into a curve to avoid hitting several little girls.

In the absence of a reserve policeman last night Daley responded to an alarm of fire. He was traveling at a fast clip when the girls darted into the street directly in his path. Daley swung his machine into the curb. It struck the stump of a tree and Daley was hurled against a tree 20 feet away. His skull was fractured and his lungs were punctured by broken ribs. The fire loss was $5.

Daley a year ago was given a medal for saving three children from drowning.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Amico

"The skin will soon regain its youthful freshness and beauty if powder be discarded for a plain lotion made by dissolving an original package of mayalene in a half-pint of witch hazel. After cleansing the face, neck and arms each morning apply some of the lotion and massage in well. This gives to the skin a satiny smoothness and delightful tone and it is especially fine for hot weather use, because one application will last an entire day. The mayalene lotion is very satisfactory for tan, freckles and sunburn and overcomes the spotted, streaked effect caused from perspiration when powder is employed. Its regular use corrects many complexion upsets and lends an added touch of refinement to the faintest skin.

Fuzzy growths appear more prominent in warm weather and are the source of considerable annoyance. A reliable and certain hair remover is made by mixing enough powdered salicylic acid with water to form a thick paste. Spread this on the objectionable hairs and after two minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. This simple treatment is inexpensive, harmless and leaves the skin without spot or blemish of any kind."

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

Unedea Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

MEAT PACKING INDUSTRY DOESN'T WANT THE JOB

Dr. A. D. Melvin to Make
Investigation

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry was designated today by Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture to undertake a three months' investigation of the meat packing industry in Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay and Paraguay.

Some time ago Secretary Houston announced his intention of sending representatives of his department to inquire into the meat industry of the southern republics and the detaching of the chief of the animal industry bureau for the work is accepted as evidence that the secretary anticipates heavy imports as soon as the new tariff bill passes with meat on the free list and that a thorough knowledge of packing conditions in the countries to the south is necessary to insure intelligent inspection.

Dr. Melvin will sail from New York Saturday. Other experts of his bureau later, it is said, will be sent to Australia and to various European countries on similar missions.

R. F. Marden Not Candidate for County Com.

Robert F. Marden is not a candidate for county commissioner. He took office on May 17 last, having been selected to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death of Charles H. Richardson of this city. Mr. Marden's election at that time came as a surprise to him and he has decided not to be a candidate at the coming election. Mr. Marden has not the time to give to the office and he doesn't want to assume any responsibility without giving it his full and entire attention.

"The brief experience I have had as county commissioner," said Mr. Marden, "convince me that the duties of the office require more time and attention than I can give to them, although my natural inclination would be to serve the county willingly. The county work is exceedingly attractive and pleasant and it is a distinct pleasure to work with my two associates on the board. For this reason I have naturally sought to convince myself that I should be a candidate, but without success."

Barrel of Money Dis-
tributed In Lodging
House District

CHICAGO, July 22.—A barrel full of half dollars which helped to enliven life for the derelicts who occupied cheap lodging houses in the First ward on the night of the last election is to be the subject of today's investigation by the special grand jury investigating the November election frauds. More than 200 denizens of the "flaps" have been subpoenaed to give their version of the distribution of the money.

Special State's Attorney Northrup will endeavor to learn from what bank the large amount of silver money was obtained. Evidence is said to have been unearthed that illegal voting was prevalent in First, Eighteenth and River wards and that the new voting machines played an important part in a well laid plan. Hundreds of illegal votes are alleged to have been registered by election judges who entered the booths with voters ostensibly to show them how to operate the devices.

Legislative inquiry into the purchase of $1,000,000 worth of voting machines by the county was begun today when the Butts committee held its first session.

ATLANTIC DEEPER WATERWAYS
Latest Bulletin of Association Shows
Progress of Development During
the Past Year

The latest bulletin of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association comments on the progress of waterway development in Massachusetts as follows:

"The month's record of progress in Massachusetts is disappointing. An important measure for harbor improvements was defeated in the state senate after passing the house by a large majority; was defeated, too, by votes from the very cities most interested. It is a striking example of popular misrepresentation, for commercial interests were unanimously for the bill.

"The plan was to vote $3,000,000 for improvement of harbors outside Boston, to be raised by popular loan at the rate of $1,000,000 per year, and to be expended by the harbor and land commission.

"There were public hearings on the bill and great interest was shown. No adverse criticism was observed. But under the surface things were going on. The final vote the bill was beaten, and largely by votes that had been regarded as absolutely sure to be in its favor.

"Whether the commissioners of the port of Boston objected to the creation of another large harbor board in the state, or whether there was jealousy there of proposed improvement influence got in its deadly work, are questions related to local politics that we do not feel called upon to determine. Senator McLean, of Fall River, who voted against the interests of his own city, is quoted as opposed to the bill because it gave discretion to the commissioners and did not specify the amounts to be spent in each place.

"The senate committee turned the bill down on the ground that taxes would be increased by interest on the bonds. Perhaps the real cause has not been disclosed.

"We believe that the defeat of this bill will echo in the state elections next fall, and that the next legislature, which meets in 1914, will receive a more determined call for favorable action on waterway improvements. Springfield and Holyoke, Fall River and New Bedford, Plymouth, Lynn, Salem and Gloucester, Haverhill and Lawrence, are all earnest for the Connecticut, Taunton and Merrimack rivers all call for improvement in the utilization of their commercial advantages; all these projects are connected with that of the intracoastal waterway, and Massachusetts cannot afford to sit still while other states are going ahead.

"More enthusiasm and determination to the friends of waterways in New England, and better luck next year!"

SCOUTS HELD GALA DAY/GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY TO STOP FIRE LOSSES

Had Enjoyable Outing at
No. Chelmsford

The third annual gala day held under the auspices of the North Chelmsford Boy Scouts was a great success, hundreds of young and old people turning out. The event was held on the large lawn adjacent to Mr. Mark Lugham's residence and a vote of thanks was extended to him for his kindness in placing the grounds at the boys' disposal during the afternoon and evening.

During the afternoon the Middlesex County Training school band gave several selections and a fine program of sports was carried out. The sporting events were very interesting and useful prizes were given the winners of the different numbers. At 5 o'clock refreshments were served and these were followed by an open-air minstrel show by the Y. M. C. A. boys who are camping at Nabnasset. The minstrel entertainment was one of the features of the day, the musical numbers being very well rendered and the jokes of the end men brought long applause from the audience. The crowd dispersed shortly after 10 o'clock, all congratulating the boys for the fine entertainment afforded during the afternoon and evening.

ROCKEFELLER HOUSE FIRED

Flames Discovered Under Stairway in Cottage on Estate at Tarrytown, New York

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 22.—Flames were discovered under the main stairway in a cottage on the Rockefeller estate at Pocantico hills, yesterday, the third fire on the property within 25 days. Mr. Rockefeller experienced much trouble with foreign laborers during a strike on his estate last fall and it is suspected that some of the disgruntled employees, scores of whom have been discharged, have sought revenge by committing arson.

Several weeks ago a stable burned with a loss of $100,000.

Red Letter Day Votes
Help Teams

"It is really surprising how the total vote of any team can be boosted on a red letter day," said a woman yesterday. "Why, last Wednesday, I made several purchases of things that I actually needed in the stores giving the votes and when I returned home I was astonished at the number of votes I had. Mind you, to get the votes I did not spend one cent over the amount that the purchases, all of which it was necessary for me to make, called for."

More and more supporters of the various teams in the great library contest are beginning to see the advantage of trading at the stores giving votes on Wednesday which will be Red Letter day during the remainder of the contest. On that day, where they would any other day receive but one vote for each ten cent purchase, they will get 10 votes. And now that ten votes and all other extra votes will be needed on the last leg of the contest time alone will tell.

Everywhere the contest has been run there are always a few teams that will show more interest and activity in the early stages of the contest than others, and how evident that is in this city. Just scan the list of teams and see whether this is true or not. Some teams probably think that the time to work the hardest is when the contest is nearing its close. This is probably a good way to sway a political battle but in the contest for books, if we may be privileged to use a little of the present day parlance "it's poor show."

As the boatman that goes out and returns with the tide, expends the least energy and can rest on his oars while the fellow boatman is hustling to keep his craft from drifting out to open water, so with the teams that are working hard now. The time of rest is coming. Don't forget to take advantage of the Red Letter Day opportunities.

Parents, Read this Letter!

I have a letter from a prominent Maine clergyman in regard to a sickness of one of his children from which I quote as follows:

"Our two-year-old baby was very sick at two different times and we came near losing her. We had the best doctors, but they did not know what the trouble was. In the first sickness she had high fever for several days, and the doctor said it acted like scarlet fever, but there were no other cases he did not think it could be. Afterwards she broke out in a rash all over her body. The last sickness was similar and the doctor was puzzled. She was very nervous and we feared we would lose her. Your Dr. True's Elixir was recommended, and after two days' use she passed several worms from two to three inches in length, and is now well and strong and sleeps at nights without fretting, tossing and starting in a fright as she did formerly."

I will be glad to furnish this clergyman's name and address to anyone who cares to write to me.

N. B.—True's Elixir is the best known remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles. Purely vegetable, pleasant to take and entirely harmless. Expels stomach worms and pinworms. All dealers, 35c; 50c; $1.00. Yours for better health,

A striking example of the valuable assistance which is being rendered patients and their children in Lowell by the charitable and benevolent association of the city is the Day Nursery in Kirk street, a four-story institution which is accomplishing no small amount of good. Much has been written and said concerning such an institution is always worthy of publication and never fails to attract the attention of people who have any sense.

Early this morning a representative of the Sun was granted an interview by the matron, Mrs. Nelson, who has been in charge of the nursery for several years. In general, she said the affairs of the place are running smoothly, though in such work the setbacks are numerous. There are now 45 children in the institution. The greater number of these brought there in the morning by working father or mother or by relative and kindred, are being sent to the city when returning from work. MUCH STRENGTH

IN THE OPENING OF THE MARKET TODAY.

Reaction Six Set In.—New Haven Convertible Six Per Cent. Bonds Fell—Business Dwindled In Afternoon

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—There was little strength in the opening market today. Early features in strength included Missouri Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and several well-known ones of the latter recording no change. Reaction soon set in, however, and gains were speedily cancelled, while active issues were mostly sold yesterday's close. The weakness was followed by New Haven convertible six per cent. bonds which fell over three points. United States government's two and Panama two fell to Union Pacific and New Haven six per cent. convertible and stock, the former declining almost four points with more than two points for the stock.

Business was slow to low ebb in the early afternoon, the dullness being partly relieved by spurt in some of the steel stocks. Their rise was temporary, however, and the company's semi-they had to contend was a fire which was discovered shortly after 10 o'clock at the power house of the State Street Railway Company, which, before extinguished, had done considerable damage to some of the big generators to the value of $5000.

The cause of the blaze was the short circuiting of engine 1 and the railway's fire emergency apparatus at once brought into play, at the same time an alarm was sent from box 271. But a moment later the fire was discovered, the power house was immediately abandoned over to an auxiliary fire service has held up for but a few minutes only.

At the prompt response and effort of the fire fighters, the damage to the building was slight. The combustible portions of the apparatus destroyed, however, and the generator was also injured by the fire. A representative of the fire department estimated the loss at approximately $5000. No change will be necessary for car service while the apparatus is being rebuilt.

35 PRISONERS BURNED TO DEATH

Negroes Trapped in Convict Cage and Screams of Agony Were Heard for Miles

While the flames rapidly ate away the old stairway leading to the second floor the prisoners fractionally tore at the heavy bars that covered the jail windows but to no avail. Their screams of agony brought guards and other prison attaches but the flames drove back members of the rescue party each time they attempted to liberate the negroes, who one by one fell back into the flames and perished.

The building was constructed ten years ago of the lumber taken from a discarded penitentiary. There was no fire fighting apparatus at the farm and the first floor of the building was filled with inflammable material. Farmers of the vicinity hurried to the jail to help fight the fire but their efforts were unavailing. The convicts all were worked in the cotton fields of the state farm and were housed in the cage at night. Among them were some desperate criminals serving long sentences. The Oakley farm is one of the most important in the state, the state prison hospital being located there. No other building was in danger, however.

trouble of any on the entire system. President Sullivan also spoke of the importance of extending all possible courtesy to the passengers, saying that a satisfied passenger will return with a dissatisfied one, and will not only keep away from the cars, but will do considerable damage verbally. He urged the men to treat all riders in a courteous manner, and by so doing they will not only carry out the wishes of the officials, but will also be held in high esteem by their many patrons.

August Mehn was next called upon during his talk pictures of railroad systems throughout the country were shown. Several taken in Merrimack square were thrown on the screen. Together with others taken in Boston and nearby cities, where the surrounding are familiar to the men. Instruction cards taken with air brakes, emergency brakes, etc., were among the pictures shown. With all the speaker explained their importance and laid particular stress upon the operation of the emergency brakes and the reverse. AGENCY brakes and other accidents have been avoided by the quick and cool work of the motorman and also told of the part that many conductors have taken in averting accidents. His talk was a very instructive one and was listened to with close attention.

At the conclusion of the address, both speakers were tendered a rising vote of thanks.

Refreshments were served and the entertainment program was carried out.

railroads in laying its difficulties with conductors and trainmen before the federal board of mediation and conciliation caused the board to suspend negotiations with the railroad managers conference committee and representatives of the employees today morning. A decision to this effect was reached by the mediators, reached this decision because the situation on the Erie lines was considered pressing. The board suspended its formal conference with the representatives of the labor organizations and invited J. C. Stuart, vice president of the board, to discuss the situation of the road. Stuart was told that the situation required immediate action. Some of the labor leaders said that if the Erie maintained its stand a strike would be declared on this line as soon as arbitration proceedings with the other roads were under way.

At the first session with the employees committee of 100 yesterday afternoon the mediators, it was learned today heard the labor leaders accuse the Erie and the railroad managers of bad faith and the men expected that the Erie's officers would be asked to answer these charges.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declared that the Erie had withdrawn from the conference of eastern railroads with the consent of the managers conference to test whether the men really would strike. He insisted that the managers negotiations with the railroad men's union.

Board Meets Committee

NEW YORK, July 22.—The demand of the eastern roads that their grievances against the men should receive immediate consideration, was the chief stumbling block before the federal board of conciliation today in its efforts to harmonize the railroad managers and their conductors and trainmen. The board this morning received a committee of 12, representing the two labor organizations and it is believed informed them that the managers at the final conference last night with the mediators had refused to withdraw their demand. At last night's meeting it is understood the mediators reported to the representatives of the railroads that the employees would not consent to have the counter demand of the roads arbitrated along with the original demands of the conductors and trainmen for better pay and working conditions. The managers insisted that their eight grievances be incorporated in an article of incorporation of the soundness of which they considered at this time they could not be taken up again before there came about any award made by the board of arbitration.

The work of the mediators apparently has not passed the preliminary stage and it may be several days before they attain any definite results.

NEW ENGLAND RAILROADS

In these times when railroad news is so much in the air it is very much to the point that we should cease looking backward for a little while and question the future. Mr. Mellen has fallen a victim to his own ill advised ambition indirectly and to public disapproval directly and it is safe to assume that the forces which made his resignation compulsory will not be satiated until the New Haven railroad disintegrates itself from all that is included in his personal policies. Rightly or wrongly, his name has become a synonym for lawless consolidation and unwarranted monopoly, and the railroad he directed, and its subsidiaries, will not receive the measure of public support and helpful co-operation requisite for their future success until they openly avow their intention of abandoning the search after imperial expansion, and show the people of this section that the interests of the patrons of the roads, the stockholders, and the New England business future are their primary considerations.

The first essential to success for the New Haven road is to adhere more closely than has been its wont to the terms of the Sherman law and the other transit laws which aimed to prevent unlawful monopoly. It must also conform itself with the recommendations of the Interstate Commerce commission as far as possible, for the people have in the main agreed with the findings of that body and will still continue to put faith in it. It must also start on an era of strict business administration to restore its physical property and get the railroad management into the good graces of its business clientele who feel generally that they are not being fairly treated in the freight transactions with the present company.

With the publication of the name of the new president, the people will form a pretty clear, if not an accurate conception of what they are to expect in the near future. As Mr. Mellen, as an individual, was held personally responsible for most of the mistakes made by the road, so will the new president be held responsible, and probably accorded an undue amount of credit for any changes for the better in the future conduct of the road. It is therefore very important that he be more of a railroad man than a financier. The faults of Mr. Mellen were due greatly to his dealing with the future of the New Haven as an abstract financial problem instead of a concrete business proposition. The man most persistently named for the position by rumor is President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific, and he is generally credited with having the qualities necessary to get the New Haven road out of the ditch of popular disfavor into which Mr. Mellen had plunged it. Time may justify the ambitions of the late president in part, but if his successor counts on the support of the people—without which he will be powerless to effect reforms—he will be forced to entirely abandon most of the schemes of the unpopular Mr. Mellen.

A failure to conform to the public requirements would have one direct result in the present attitude towards railroad problems—a strong demand for government ownership or control. Even the most ardent supporters of this regard it rather as a necessary evil than as a condition to be desired. It can be avoided by tact and frankness on the part of the local railroad managements; everything will depend on the declarations of the policy for the near future. For the industrial prosperity of New England it is to be hoped that the popular demand will be heeded.

IRISH HOME RULE

It was generally conceded both here and abroad after the recent move of Lord Landsdowne to postpone action on the Irish Home Rule bill until it had again been submitted to the judgment of the country, that there was danger in the situation. If there was nothing that would jeopardize the ultimate granting of the great reform, it looked as though the house of lords had discovered a technicality that would defeat the terms of the parliament bill under which the Home Rule bill was to become law automatically when, after the last rejection of the lords, the house of commons had passed it for the third time. If the action of Lord Landsdowne were to be supported, the House of Commons would be forced to begin at the beginning and run the chance of ministry changes and such accidents for some years to come.

It is, however, the general impression in England, as shown by the press, that the tactful move of Lord Landsdowne will avail the unionist cause. The parliament act provides that "a bill shall be deemed to be rejected by the house of lords if it is not passed by the house of lords in its original form, or with such amendments as may have been agreed on by both houses." Thus, and the consequence has been general refusal of the lords to act on the Home Rule bill—or their so-called strike—has been a virtual rejection of the bill, backed by public opinion in every way they had thrown it out in the natural

Why he loves his country so well that he takes the whole of it if he could. As it is, he's taken for more than his share. Love his country, indeed—he positively adores it."

A farmer rushed up to the home of a country doctor in the village late one night and brought him to come out to a distant farm.

The doctor went with him to the farm, and they drove to a lonely place in the farmer's home. Upon their arrival the farmer said:

"How much is your fee, Doc?"

"Three dollars," said the physician in surprise.

"Here you are," said the farmer, handing over the money. "The blamed thing, I wanted five dollars to drive me home."

Summer Board in Colorado Very Moderate Charges

"I'd like to go to Colorado," said a man the other day. "but it costs so much to live there that I'm afraid I can't."

"Forget it," said his friend, who had spent a month last summer in the Wonderful State. "I got that folder the Burlington gets up telling the hotel rates. And I was mightily surprised to find that besides the hotels there are hundreds of good, clean, wholesome ranch houses in Colorado, where the rates are as low as $3.00 a week, and the fare is mighty good."

That folder is published by the Burlington railroad to show folks how they can enjoy a vacation in Colorado at a very reasonable expense. And I'd like to mail you a copy of it—free. It tells all about the country, gives a complete list of hotels and boarding houses, addresses, rates, conveniences, elevation and nearby attractions.

Let me send these, and if you wish I can tell you all about the trains and the best way to get to the most wonderfully charming country in America.

My waltz. I'm fond of ice cream and of crackers and cheese. And terrapin, too, with my palate agrees. Of food that is simple and food that is rare I can utilize all of my share. But wondrous, indeed, are the joys of a cold mashed potatoes and left-over steak!

Ah me, how I pity the mortal who dwells in his boarding houses or costly hotels. No matter how richly and grandly he dines With Frenchified dishes and notable He never can know the delights of the cold mashed potatoes and left-over steak.

For when the forepart of the evening has sped And the stomach expresses a wish To satisfy hunger that follows the play, I have no desire for its gaudy café. Ah no, I would stick to my regular lunch.

At home, in the kitchen, my fast I would break With cold mashed potatoes and left-over steak. —Boston Braley.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

David L. Walsh Boston Herald: David Walsh deserves the nomination. He is a popular young man. He has shown himself a good vote-getter. As the democratic candidate he will be a formidable factor in the November election, no matter whether there are three in the gubernatorial race, or four, as seems more likely.

Art and Literature Boston Post: No more inconsequent and inconsistent proposition could be advanced in the scheme of reform of that of imposing a tax upon works of art and upon books in foreign languages. It is reported from Washington that President Wilson has expressed his astonishment that any such obstruction should be suggested.

Rather Suggestive Boston Globe: Considering the relations of Mexico and Japan and the United States, isn't it rather suggestive that President Huerta should send Gen. Diaz to Japan just at this time, when the candidate for the latter's participation in Mexico's centennial is being discussed?

Balance of Power Lewiston Sun: Bulgaria seems to have found that she bit off more than she could chew. Balance of power is an old game in Europe; but when it is played faster than they are playing it in the Balkans, it is a new game.

The Canadian Government has supplied 25 million tree seedlings to farmers, principally in the Alberta and Regina plains region. The United States does not supply young trees to the public, except in a limited area in Nebraska, under the terms of the Kinland act.

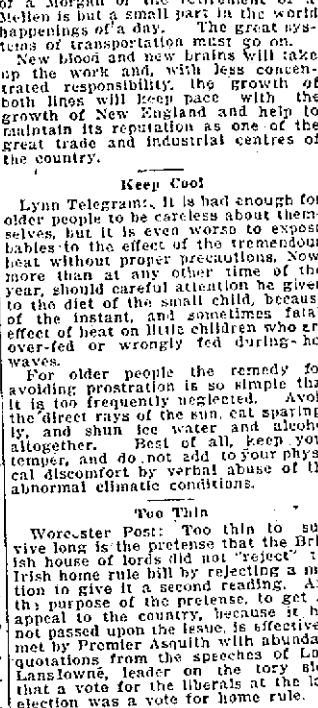

The federal lighthouse bureau and the forest service are co-operating in forest work. Through this sounds strange, it becomes a very simple fact, as pointed out by the officials of the bureau, that the co-operation is confined to the lighthouse districts on the shores of the Great Lakes in the lumber states of Michigan and Wisconsin. The lighthouse reservations here include a total of nearly 5500 acres, and range in size from 20 acres at Grand Island, Mich., to 1040 acres at Grand Marais.

HOLD UP CITY'S BUSINESS

Boston's Mayor Gets After Councilmen

BOSTON, July 22.—Failure on the part of a majority of the city council to respond to a call for a special meeting of that body, which was scheduled to take place yesterday, caused Mayor Fitzgerald to hurl a verbal broadside at the city fathers.

He declared that the council is not only following out a policy of holding up the city's business, but that by its failure to meet it caused the deferring of the necessary steps to lessen the danger from fire to thousands of Bostonians.

But for councillors, Kenny, Buckley, Collins and Smith, were present for the session called yesterday. They waited 10 minutes for another of their colleagues to put in an appearance and then left city hall.

The mayor, who had summoned Corporation Counsel Corbett, Building Commissioner Everett and Fire Commissioner Cole to his office, did not meet until he sent a messenger to ask the council to confer with him and the above mentioned officials.

He said at first that he would try and get the council together later in the day and if not would call a meeting for today.

He rapped Councillor Kenny hard for not calling at the mayor's office to confer upon pending matters. The mayor was considerably mollified later in the day, however, when he talked with President Kenny on the phone. The latter said that the council would meet next Monday and that if any of the matters which the mayor sent to it required immediate action, the council, instead of holding them over for a week as is the usual custom, would undoubtedly suspend the rules and pass them at once.

The mayor wished to present to the council orders providing for the expenditure of $200,000 for the extension of water mains; $25,000 for a playground in Brighton; $15,000 for the completion of the ward 8 bathhouse. He also wished to present resolutions favoring government ownership of coal mines. The proposed improvement of water mains was recommended as the result of the shortage of water at the recent big Dorchester fires.

President Mellen to Rest Up NEW HAVEN, July 22.—When Mellen lays down the duties of president of the New Haven road in accordance with his recently accepted resignation he intends to sleep well, at three meals a day and attend strictly to his own business.

This was his answer given yesterday in response to a query as to his plans for the future.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

School for Children of Mill Operatives in Columbus, Ga., With Hours to Suit Their Convenience

A school specially designed for children of mill operatives is a feature of the industrial education system of Columbus, Ga., according to a bulletin just issued by the United States bureau of education. The school was established with the idea of encouraging attendance among the large class of mill children in Columbus, many of whom were not going to school at all.

A handsome colonial residence in the mill district was purchased by the board of education for the new school. Special pains were taken to adapt the course of study and the hours in the school to the conditions of mill work. School hours are from 8 to 11, and from 1 to 3.30. The long interval is to enable the children to take lunches to parents, brothers, sisters, and others who may be employed in the mills. This is a regular daily task with most of the children, some of them earning several dollars a week as "dinner-toters." The school itself is frequently termed by the children "the dinner-totter school."

"Although the aim of the school is industrial, the 'three R's' are insisted upon even more severely than in the regular schools, because of the limited time the children have for schooling. 'Although the prescribed course contemplates seven years,' says the bulletin, 'few of the pupils continue after the fifth and sixth year, no strong is the social stigma. Not more than one per cent finish this school and pursue their studies further.'"

The three morning hours and the first hour of the afternoon are devoted to academic studies, while the last hour and a half of the day is given to practical work. All the boys are required to take the elementary course in woodwork and gardening. The girls take basket-making, sewing, cooking, and the study of home economics. The school is in session all the year round, and pupils are promoted quarterly. Teachers live at the school and keep "open house" to the people of the community at all times.

This school is only one part of a carefully developed system of industrial training in Columbus that is intended to reach the needs of all parts of the population. Particularly significant to many communities is the industrial high school, the aims and scope of which are also described in the bureau's bulletin.

Girl Died Under Mys-
terious Circumstances
In Boston

BOSTON, July 22.—Speeding in a high-powered automobile toward a Boston hotel where his daughter, Miss D. E. Beebe, had just died under mysterious circumstances, Dr. Arthur Beebe, a wealthy business man, was killed in a tragic way last night, when his car ran over and fatally injured a boy in Chelsea. After taking the boy, Harry Samulsky, 19 years old, to the Naval hospital, where he died, the astonished father was forced to wait further while his chauffeur was arrested, charged with killing the lad, went through the formality of giving bond and was able finally to resume his run to this city. When he arrived at the hotel, Mr. Beebe learned that his daughter registered there yesterday morning, was taken ill in the afternoon and sent for a physician, saying that she was suffering from poison. The doctor had difficulty in entering the room. When he was able to go in he found the young woman dead. The cause of death, according to the physician, was "heart trouble." Miss Beebe had been suffering from nervous trouble for three years. She had been living recently at the family's summer home in Manchester, Mass.

CARDINAL GIBBONS IS 74 TODAY

HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL GIBBONS

Observes Birthday in Baltimore, the Place of His Birth—Says "Life is Nearly Spent"

BALTIMORE, Md., July 22.—James Cardinal Gibbons, who is celebrating his 74th birthday here in the town of his birth today, says that he does not expect to live much longer.

"My life is nearly spent," he told a visitor. "I will soon be an octogenarian, and nature must take its course. God has blessed me with a long life, and I am ready to answer whenever He sees it to call me to render an account of my stewardship. I think it will not be long now, and there was no sorrow in his voice. 'And when the call comes, I think it will be a sudden one. We should all be ready for the call, because we don't know how soon it may come.'"

"I still feel young," he smiled. "You know it is the soul that makes us young or old. If our souls be young, though our bodies be as old as Methuselah, we are young indeed."

Cardinal's Career
Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore, was taken to Ireland in his boyhood, where a liberal education was begun. On returning to America he entered St. Charles College, Maryland, where he graduated with distinction in 1857. Thence he went to St. Mary's Seminary, where he was ordained a priest in 1861 by Archbishop Patrick Kenrick.

He was at once assigned to duty as assistant priest at St. Patrick's Church, East Baltimore, under Father James Dolan. Next he was sent as pastor to the then struggling parish of St. Bridget's at Canton, where he struggled so faithfully that he soon won recognition from his ecclesiastical superiors, and in a few years he was made private secretary to Archbishop Spaulding, Dr. Kenrick's successor.

Later the archbishop recommended him for the episcopate, and in 1868 he was consecrated bishop in the Baltimore Cathedral.

Wrote "Faith of Our Fathers"
In four years he was again promoted, such remarkable executive ability had he displayed, and became bishop of Richmond. It was here that he wrote "The Faith of Our Fathers," a book especially designed to give Southerners an idea of Catholic doctrine. It sold by the thousands, and has been translated into every language.

In five years more he built several churches in Richmond, also founding St. Peter's Cathedral, academy and parochial school.

On May 20, 1877, he was appointed conductor, with the right of succession to Archbishop Bayley of Baltimore, and was installed archbishop Feb. 10, 1878. In 1887 he received the red hat of the cardinalate from Pope Leo XIII, and was welcomed on his return from Europe by one of the most imposing public demonstrations ever witnessed in Baltimore.

Founder of Catholic University
He was one of the founders of the Catholic University at Washington. His influence at the Vatican was great, and his representations were said to be the cause of the Pope's famous encyclicals on the labor question.

The cardinal's mode of living has always been simple in the extreme. His library is one of the most extensive private collections in the country.

When asked recently to comment on Miss Inez Mithelland, he said: "The mission of the church is to define faith and morals. In other matters, individuals decide for themselves. Miss Mithelland is in error if she says the Catholic church is opposed to suffrage."

The Casino
The Casino is open every night, of course, but Wednesday night is always a special occasion, for it is then the old time music is played in the concert preceding dancing and for the dancing, as well. The Casino orchestra is now at its best, a fact which you will appreciate upon your first visit to the popular amusement resort.

of 5 or 6 years, who have been brought to the nursery each day and taken care of while the parents work, since the time when they were but a few weeks old.

In addition to being a day nursery for the care of children whose parents are obliged to work and who cannot give proper attention to their children during the day, the institution is a temporary home and as such accommodates several "home children," which is the term applied by those in charge to the little ones who remain there day and night until some better arrangements can be made for them. These receive the same care that is afforded children who are inmates of orphan asylums and homes for the destitute.

The children at the Day Nursery are of various nationalities. This morning there were several Greek and Polish babies and a Belgian child, which the matron declared to be, in her opinion, the prettiest and most attractive in the house. Mrs. Nelson is herself a lover of children and takes delight in showing the little ones to visitors. The work of giving them proper care is quite taxing and requires unselfish devotion on the part of the matron and her assistants of which there are four. Mrs. Nelson, with her extreme fondness for the little ones, is an authority on matters relating to their proper care and under her direction very little trouble of any sort is experienced.

There are at present in the nursery two Polish children, the mother of whom became insane and was sent to an asylum at Worcester. One of these children, (both are boys) is extremely quiet while the other appears to be of an irritable temperament. In both extremes they appear abnormal, a fact which Mrs. Nelson attributed to constant association with an unbalanced mother. They are being cared for day and night at the nursery, awaiting the arrival of the authorities from Boston to take them to the state asylum in that city.

Pay Very Small

For caring for the children throughout the day, the authorities of the day nursery receive a sum of money that is ridiculously small. The maximum charge is ten cents which is required in case of one child. Where there are two or more, the charge for the care is ten cents for the first and five cents each per day for the others. The amount being set with a view to placing the advantages of the institution within the reach of all parents who cannot find time to devote to the care of their children during the day.

A number of years ago, the number of little ones who were brought to the institution for care during the day was quite small compared with the number at the present time. The place has grown rapidly and the advantages which it affords the needy working people are becoming daily more evident. Following the strike in the mills here, the Day Nursery was resorted to more than ever by the mothers and fathers, perhaps owing to the shortage of money which their idleness must have caused.

The children who are brought to the Nursery vary from one age of only a few weeks to 11 years. There are playrooms in the house with various means of amusement and play for the little girls and boys. There is another nursery in First street, conducted under the same auspices. There are house physicians who look after the ill of the children of both and these are Doctors Pillsbury, Plunkett and Lathrop.

An added advantage of the Kirk street institution is the fact that it is situated quite near the Paige street playground so that the children can go there under the guidance of one of those in charge and spend part of the day in wholesome outdoor play with the means afforded at the recreation park. This morning there were 25 of the children from the nursery in charge of two matrons, all laughing and shouting and to all appearances keenly enjoying the various games, the swings, and other amusements which the grounds have for them.

Although the Kirk Street Day Nursery is in a flourishing condition, its needs being supplied by contributions and funds in charge of a committee, nevertheless, there are certain things which are lacking which if contributed, would add greatly to the happiness of the little ones and to the success in general of the institution. In the first place there is a scarcity of proper clothing and if the people of Lowell would send contributions of children's garments to the Kirk street temporary home, the authorities would greatly appreciate the assistance and accept the offerings with the deepest gratitude. Then again, in such a place, the supplying of the children is another problem for many are lost and broken in a day, sometimes leaving the supply on hand hardly adequate. It is quite certain that there are many houses in the city where such toys that would bring joy to the hearts of the children at the Nursery are discarded and thrown away, and in such cases the sending of these to the institution would be of untold help to those in charge.

The greatest number of children that have been cared for in the Day Nursery in any one day thus far is 62. Contributions of all sorts are made daily by interested people who have a desire to help in the work and these contributions are strong factors in the success of the Day Nursery.

Mrs. Nelson, the matron, makes the very best use of everything placed in her charge for the benefit of the children.

KISSED WIFE AND THEN SHOT HER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 22.—"Kiss me good bye and I'll go away and never bother you again." With this request Albert Snyder, 30, approached his wife today as she was about to enter a downtown store where she was employed as bookkeeper, threw his arms about her neck and fired a bullet into her forehead. He then fired a ball into his own brain. At the hospital it was stated recovery of either was doubtful. Recently Mrs. Snyder instituted proceedings for divorce.

WINCHESTER, Ky., July 22.—Andrew Johnson was today found guilty of complicity in the assassination of Ed Callahan, former sheriff and noted feudist of Breathitt county, and was given a life sentence. The trial of Fletcher Beaton, also charged with conspiracy in the assassination plot, was begun immediately. There are 18 more to be tried for the murder and 12 for perjury.

MISS GRACE YOUNG
Who Will Be Seen at the Merrimack Square Soon

Merrimack Square Theatre

Excellent vaudeville acts together with motion pictures of the highest order make the bill at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, one which cannot fail to please those who attend the performances. Large audiences were present at the performances yesterday and last night and went away pleasantly.

"The Cowboy Girl" is the headliner and is a delightful sketch depicting life in the west. The story is cleverly constructed and hinges on the efforts of a girl to prevent a sheriff from capturing a man who is wanted for homicide. The humorous situations are many and the piece is generously sprinkled with clean sparkling comedy.

Johnny Gray and his banjo agurs prominently on the bill. Besides playing the instrument in a pleasing manner, Mr. Gray executes some new dancing steps and songs. His big stunt is seen when he dances a buck and wing while playing an air on a harmonica and an accompaniment on the banjo. He won generous applause. William Carr is a Lowell boy, who contributes some excellent whistling solos to the bill. Editha Shanny sings songs that are beautifully illustrated. The photographs are above the ordinary this week and the two reel feature is entitled "The Failure of Success." There are also several others, including a farce comedy.

BIG MONEY FOR LOBBY WORK

Said to Have Been Paid Former Rep. Watson—May Not be Cross-Examined

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Attorneys for the National Association of Manufacturers may not be permitted to cross examine Martin M. Mulhall, the confessed lobbyist before the senate investigating committee. When Attorney Robert McCarter for the manufacturers suggested cross examination of Mulhall on his story that former Representative James E. Watson of Indiana had been paid a retainer of $500 and a weekly salary of $250 to work for the passage of a tariff commission bill with a promise of an additional $10,000 if the bill was successful, Senator Reed, the committee questioner, declared himself against a cross examination, but proposed that questions be submitted to the committee. The point was not finally decided.

Mulhall today swore that he drew $500 from a Baltimore bank to be paid to Watson.

Mulhall swore that Watson had made the office here of James A. Emery his headquarters after he was defeated for governor of Indiana in 1908.

Emery, Mulhall said, was the "chief lobbyist" for the manufacturers.

He declared today that former Senator Hemenway of Indiana occupied rooms next to Emery and that Watson was in one office or the other much of the time.

Athletes and Athletics

Henderson is some pitcher, but you fans ought to see him play pool. This twirler won the amateur pool title over in New York and, believe us, he is some lad with the cue. It goes as a matter of fact by the writer that there isn't a man in these parts who can hold a candle to the always smiling pitcher of the local team.

Joe Egan, Gilbert Gallant, Eddie Murphy or any other New Englander worthy of note has the chance that all of them are talking so much about at a meeting of the local athletic club. These boys are ready to talk about boxing but whether or not they really want to meet each other will be decided in the next few weeks. The local club certainly has an even better reputation than the club in Boston for putting on and furnishing the incentive for classy performers.

The "Bride of Springfield" Rabbit Maranville still keeps on with that cross-eyed holding game. In contrast to the majority of ball players who have thrived on the "Bride" has not been a "fat head" for a long time. Maranville played the same brilliant game in the field last Saturday, the day of his celebration, that he always displays and, so far as the writer could judge, was not inflated to any great extent by an opinion of his omnipotence. "Rabbit," if you only stick to these lines you will be a credit to the people who traveled from Springfield to do you honor.

These Athletics still look to be the real thing even though Connie Mack is hard up for pitching material. The wily Mack has achieved such a lead that it will indeed be a difficult feat to head him off before the close of the American League season. Manager Birmingham of Cleveland asserts that his club will turn the last corner of the race in the best of form and lead of the Athletics but it hardly seems reasonable to expect Birmingham has turned out a mighty good team this year and no mistake but he has a long road to cover before he can challenge Mr. Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Greek colony in Lowell has organized a baseball team under the name of the Athens which is having itself right proudly among the various athletic teams in this vicinity. Last Saturday they defeated two teams one of them being a fact semi-professional club from Waltham.

The Freddie Maguire-Gardner Brooks bout which takes place next Saturday at Spaulding Park is causing more talk among the local followers of the sport than the appearance of Jack Johnson would invite. Each contends that he is the other's superior and the members of the club have an exciting ten rounds ahead of them. While Maguire is clever in all probability he will waste into the young.

"THE FAILURE OF SUCCESS"
In Two Parts

President Navin of the Detroit club appears to be deeply incensed over the recent rumors that he stands ready to exchange Ty Cobb for Tris Speaker of the Red Sox. The Detroit magazine affirms that the equal of Cobb has never been produced and says that there is nothing but idle gossip to the stories about the proposed deal. Those on the inside, however, seem to think that the trade may be pulled off eventually.

The time has now arrived when the ball clubs with prominent aspirations are calling upon all their reserve forces. As in the major leagues the "little old crowd" is tightening up. Every manager in the first division is grooming his chances for the next dash to the tape. Manager Gray's boys look to be in the best shape for that last hard pull.

The end has not yet been reached in the Stahel-Herzog controversy. The "noise" Ben Johnson is increased over what he terms the injustice done to the former Red Sox manager. It was bad enough to release the leader of the world's champions in the middle of the season without adding the further disgrace of performing the operation in his home town, argues Ben. It will be remembered that the resident of the American League disposed one John L. Taylor not long ago from a club presidency and who knows what may occur when the present tangle in the league is cleared up?

The management of the Triangle A. A. certainly have faith in the sporting public of Lowell when they offer the card to their members which is billed for next Saturday. Notwithstanding the fact that the club sunk nearly half a thousand in their first bill four ten round bouts will be furnished at Spaulding Park. It now remains to be seen whether the fans will support a club which puts on its various cards regardless of expense to the promoters. From the contests furnished at the last meeting it would seem that the new athletic club would receive the hearty cooperation of all its members.

Morning practice may be an important factor in a team's mid-season work and then again it may not be. Connolly, left fielder of the Braves, was injured in yesterday morning's practice at the National League grounds and allowed two of the Cubs base runners to score in the afternoon.

Challenge for Lowell Caps
The professional and business men who broke into the baseball field at an outing recently held at the Glenwood club grounds in Tyngsboro have selected one of their best men and have issued a challenge to Manager Eddie Connors of the Lowell police team. The two teams, one of which was captained by John J. McQuinn and the other by George Allard are of the opinion that from out of that large aggregation of baseball material they can select an outfit that will prove superior to the caps. If Manager Connors accepts, the game will in all probability be played the latter part of this week.

HERZOG OF GIANTS HAS BEEN

Charley Herzog, who usually plays third base for the Giants and who also raises antelopes on his Maryland farm, has recently suffered a batting slump, and Manager McGraw has been letting him warm the bench. Herzog's average for the season is .282, which is not bad, but Shaffer is batting above .300, so he has been shifted to the third sack while Herzog rests and recovers his batting eye. Herzog is one of the sluggers, nearly one-half of his hits being for extra bases. He is also fleet on the bases, as his record of thefts will show.

Many and all games are represented at the museum by interesting relics and Dr. Holland has announced that his institution would like Honus' baseball accoutrements when he retires, believing him to be the most wonderful ball player ever known.

WISE BREAKS RECORD, BROCKTON WINS FROM LOWELL

Hits Bullseye 103 Times
at Wakefield

BOSTON, July 22.—Capt. Stuart W. Wise of Brockton, who has won international honors as a marksman, yesterday, at the ninth annual meeting of the New England Military Rifle Association on the Wakefield range, made a new world's record when he placed within the bullseye 103 consecutive shots at the 500-yard range.

An shot after shot sped from the military rifle of the marksman groups of officers gathered about him to see the accomplishment of his feat, whispering among themselves so as to avoid making any noise to disturb the record-breaking captain, the 104th shot fired in the twilight fell less than an inch below the black dial into the ring marked number 4. He had done what no other living man had been able to accomplish.

The first man to rush over to Capt. Wise and shake his hand heartily was Jas. W. Hession of Bridgeport, Conn., who has held the former record of 57 bullseyes since 1909, made at Camp Perry, Ohio. Mr. Hession held the record captain's hand for almost a minute, lauding him to the skies for his remarkable feat.

However, Capt. Wise, in his modest way, hung his head and brushed off the dirt from his clothes and stretched himself to get the kinks out of his body due to his laying on the ground in the same position for one hour and 58 minutes while making his record.

When interviewed as to how he felt over his wonderful feat Capt. Wise merely said: "I never felt better in my life and after making two bullseyes in my two sighting shots I felt that I could hit that bullseye forever. When I reached Hession's record of 57 bullseyes I was greatly elated, but subdued my emotions and from then on took great pains and kept my eye on the target almost continuously lest I should lose my gauge."

The weather conditions were almost perfect and I was not troubled by anything but my eyesight, which in the gathering dusk finally brought about my failure on the 104th shot."

FOSS AS G.O.P. NOMINEE

Move to Have Governor
Run as Republican

BOSTON, July 22.—The talk, plentiful for months past, that Gov. Eugene N. Foss would this year run for reelection on the republican ticket, crystallized into action yesterday when ex-Senator William A. Nye of Bourne took out 25 nomination papers to circulate among the republicans on the Cape.

Ever a supporter of Gov. Foss "Bill" Nye had for some time past made no secret of his belief that the governor ought to run as a republican, and yesterday he visited Boston expressly to start things that way. After making the rounds of the politicians, he reached the office of the secretary of the commonwealth about 4.45, and took the papers out.

"Does Gov. Foss give his consent to this?" asked Sec. Frank J. Donahue. "I don't care whether he does or not," replied the ex-senator.

"Does he know anything about it?" Sec. Donahue asked again. "He will before the week is out," was the answer.

It appears in fact that Gov. Foss did not know anything about it, but the plan originated solely with ex-Senator Nye and other republicans on the Cape who believe that the governor will take the nomination if they tender it to him.

Gov. Foss, asked last evening if he had taken out republican nomination papers, gave an abrupt "No." When asked if he had authorized their being taken out, he hung up the telephone receiver. A later question as to whether he knew ex-Senator Nye's activities found him retired to bed.

Among other party heads and officials the news of the move by the Cape republicans caused a general surprise. Some, like Col. Everett C. Benton, announced candidate for the republican nomination, could not believe it; others, as Chairman Thomas P. Riley, of the democratic state committee, refused to take it seriously.

A SHORT RESPIRE
Remember we close at 11.30 a. m. tomorrow for the druggists' annual outing and do not open until Thursday. Buy today if possible. Howard, the Druggist, 107 Central street.

There is an old adage that runs: As the twig is bent, so will the tree incline.

As with the twig so with the boy and young man.

The most natural trait of the boy is "play," and he will take his share without the slightest urging.

But while he is developing his body, how about his mind? There is where the rub comes. For as you know, the most perfect machine will not run unless it is properly adjusted and balanced. The boy and young man of today will be the men of tomorrow, and in a certain sense, are machines. The development of the body while the mind is allowed to remain in a comatose state is bound to work havoc with the nerve system.

Now, here is where the game of POOL, where taught and played right, affords the proper relaxation for the mind tissues that is necessary for them. In playing the game of pool, to bring various shots to a successful completion, the player has to "think" these shots out and this is one of the phases of the game that presents a line of thought that is different from any to be gotten in any other pastime.

Adams' Wildness Cause of Defeat
—Billy McMahon in Brockton
Lineup—Score 7 to 4

Pitcher Adams lost another game for Lowell yesterday through his wildness at critical moments. Adams passed six men, not to mention two wild pitches and a bad error on which two runs came across for Brockton. The final score in yesterday's game with the Shogmakers was Brockton 7, Lowell 4.

Brockton started her scoring in the first inning but when the fourth session was reached the score stood, Lowell 4 and Brockton 2. Swann, who started the game for Brockton, was yanked in this inning and Condrick, a recruit, who replaced him, allowed the local team but one hit and got a rally.

His pitching in the pinches was the feature of the game. Adams, as usual, was Lowell's mainstay with the stick, while Halstead, McMahon, and Swann hit opportunely. Billy McMahon of this city played short stop for Brockton and fielded his position sensationally. McMahon's single also scored a run in the seventh inning when he hit safely to left field.

CHINA TRADE DISLOCATED

Through Proclamation of
Kwang Tung Province

CANTON, July 22.—Trade throughout southern China has been dislocated through the proclamation of the independence of the province of Kwang Tung. In this city great anxiety has been created, stores have been closed and many merchants have telegraphed to shippers not to consign goods here for the present.

A great many people have left the city in junks and others have gone north on foot. Thousands more have flocked into the Portuguese colony of Macao and into Hong Kong, among the latter being officials who have retired from their posts carrying with them millions of dollars in silver and paper money.

There is a strong feeling of resentment throughout the southern provinces against the policy of Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai but it is felt in most quarters that it will be impossible to resist him for long as he commands a large trained army, possesses money and has the powers support.

BACK FROM SOUTH AMERICA
37 Members of Boston Chamber of Commerce Toured Central and South American Countries

NEW YORK, July 22.—On board the Vassari, which arrived yesterday afternoon from So. American ports, were 37 members of the Boston chamber of commerce, who left Boston April 24th to tour Central and South American countries. The object of their trip was to study and if possible, to better trade conditions between this country and the South American republics. The party was composed of representatives New England business men. The chairman was Col. Henry L. Kincaide, a merchant and banker of Quincy, Mass.

Battleship to Protect Americans
VERA CRUZ, July 22.—The United States battleship Louisiana left here last night under full speed. She is bound for Tuxman, where it is understood Americans and other foreign residents are in need of protection.

CHANGES ON BAY STATE

Due to 9 in 11 Hour Law
Now in Effect

All cars on the local division of the Bay State Street Railway were "bid off" the first of this week, and many changes have been made in the crews who have charge of the cars. Every three months the employees of the railway are allowed the privilege of bidding for cars, the one who has been in the employ of the company the longest term having first choice and so on down the list.

The 9 in 11 law which went into effect this week has made it necessary to change the crews during the day as the Bay State is very strict in obeying this law. Any employee who does not wish to work more than nine hours in eleven is relieved by another after his nine hours' work is done, while the "relief" man may work on one car but to finish his day's work. Some of the men have expressed their desire to work more than the nine hours and there is nothing in the law that can stop them. The officials are having a hard time in arranging the schedule so that a man is not worked longer than the time allowed him, but it is believed that after they become more familiar with the schedule it will be satisfactory to all.

OFF to the Beach
The excursion held today under the auspices of the Bay State Street railway consisted of three large special cars containing about 150 happy picnickers. The cars conveyed the group to Beverly beach, arriving there about 10 o'clock this morning. The excursionists enjoyed themselves at the different amusement places along the boulevard. The return trip will be made early this evening.

BANK BOOK AND $128 STOLEN

Daring Robbery in Store of the Lowell Furniture Co.—Thief Made His Escape

Pierre Leblanc, proprietor of the Lowell Furniture company in Merrimack street had his finances reduced to the extent of $128 this morning by a thief, the identity of whom is unknown. If the loser's theory is the correct one, the robbery was committed in a manner that was undeniably well planned. A bank book of Mr. Leblanc was also taken.

About 8:45 o'clock this morning, a Greek entered the store and expressed a desire to purchase some caters. The proprietor went into a room in the rear where the articles were stored and when he returned with them, the customer handed him a paper for them with a $5 bill. To get the change, Mr. Leblanc was obliged to open his desk in which was the sum of $128 together with the bank book. A short time afterward, a second man came in and asked to see some chairs and the proprietor of the store conducted him to the front where these articles of furniture were located. After the second customer had gone, Mr. Leblanc missed the money from the desk.

It is the belief of the victim that while he was engaged in showing the chairs to the customer, someone who was familiar with the interior of the store entered unnoticed and took the money and bank book from the desk. The matter was reported at once to the police who are now at work on the case.

U. S. MAY INTERVENE IN MEXICO

Rep. Murray Asks Senate to Take Action if Peace Proclamation of Pres. Wilson Fails

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Representative Murray of Oklahoma, well known as "Alfalfa Bill," introduced an elaborate set of resolutions today in which he invites the senate to concur directing intervention in Mexico in order and peace are not restored within 30 days after President Wilson has issued a proclamation to that effect.

Murray's resolutions characterize Provisional President Huerta as a "murdering marauder," "black-handed murderer" and his regime as "founded upon treachery, duplicity and murder."

MEXICAN SITUATION UNDER DISCUSSION AT CABINET MEETING

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The Mexican situation was under discussion again today at the cabinet meeting. John Bassett Moore, acting secretary of state in the absence of Secretary Bryan, sat at the cabinet table with President Wilson and the secretary's changes in the plans of ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, now hurrying north from Mexico City so that he will continue from Havana to New York by sea instead of landing at Key West and proceeding thence by rail to Washington, are expected to make a day's difference in the time of the ambassadors arrival. The conference at which Mr. Wilson is to lay before the president and Secretary Bryan a first hand report of the situation in Mexico upon which some important development may be based, probably will not take place before Saturday. Meanwhile the situation, so far as the United States is concerned, seems to be understood.

With Com. Cummings Inspected W. Centralville Park Land

They Found a Retaining Wall Required Against Freshets

Commissioner Cummings and John W. Kernan, superintendent of parks, looked over the park and playground site suggested by West Centralville residents, yesterday, and they seem to think very well of it. The land is in Lakeview avenue near Island street and Commissioner Cummings said today that he would invite the entire municipal council to take a peek at the land. The Look & Canals Co. own a big stretch of the land and Commissioner Cummings has addressed a communication to Mr. Mills asking him what price if any, would be asked. Mr. Cummings has also interviewed other land owners.

When the petition for the park and playground in West Centralville came up at a recent hearing at city hall, more than 50 persons appeared in favor of the petition. Yet there is said to be considerable opposition to the

CONFLICTING REPORTS FROM SOFIA

LONDON, July 22.—Apparently conflicting reports as to the fate of Adrianople come from Sofia and Constantinople. It appears, however, that the despatch from the Bulgarian capital announcing that the Turks merely reconnoitered the position and then retired was sent off the night before the news of the entry of the Turkish troops had been received.

President Huerta upon the progress of his administration.

The disappearance of the rebels from the railroads to the east and west of San Luis Potosi has enabled the authorities to re-open the lines to Aguas Calientes and Tampico. The rebels on the main line of the national railroads have moved further south however and were reported last night at Pecos, the first station north of San Luis.

WILL STOP GAMBLING

Gov. Pothier Gets After R. I. Officials

PROVIDENCE, July 22.—The officials of several Rhode Island towns and the city of Cranston were told by Gov. Pothier this afternoon that they must make some effort at once to stop the gambling which is alleged to be going on in these places. The governor declared that he had received complaints that gambling houses are being run in Cranston, Johnston, Pawtucket and Jamestown and that unless they are suppressed by the local authorities he will take active measures himself.

PREMIER ASQUITH WARNS TURKEY

About Violating Provisions of Treaty—Speaks at Banquet in His Honor

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., July 22.—Premier Asquith in his speech at the banquet in his honor here last night said the spectacle in eastern Europe was disheartening and repellent. It was not an unnatural opinion, he said, that Europe should be profoundly moved and should demand of those with whom in the last resort reside the power and the responsibility which accompanies that power that they should show readiness and ability to end the sombre chapter of European history.

"So far as Great Britain is concerned," continued the premier, "we have labored unceasingly and not without success to promote and preserve united action by the powers and I honestly believe that it was never in less jeopardy than it is today.

"The powers, in the pursuit of the preservation of peace, by mutual confidence and corporate policy, while limiting as far as possible direct intervention, have kept and will keep in their own hands the delimitation of the frontiers of Albania and the destination of the Aegean Isles.

"Secondly, under their auspices the terms of the treaty of London were concluded when the Enos-Media line, which is to bound the European territory of Turkey, was laid down and they have already appointed experts to trace the actual course of that line.

"Powers' 'Hand Off' Policy

Apart from these restrictions the powers have not concerned themselves in the first instance in the distribution of territory outside that line, trusting that it would be a matter of mutual friendly agreement between the parties concerned. That hope has been frustrated. A state which was not before
